They will probably be in the shape of a resolution asking Congress to limit all foreign immigration to this country for a number of years, but beyond doubt the principal business to come before the delegates will be the adoption of a political platform. As a basis for such a matter the following programme, made by the different trades assemblies of Great Britain, has been recommended for consideration:

Britain, has been recommended for consideration:

"Compulsory education; direct legislation; a legal eight-hour working day; santary inspection of workshops, mines and homes; liability of employers for injury to health, body or life; the abolition of the sweating system; the municipal ownership of street cars and electric plants for public distribution of light, heat and power; the nationalization of telegraphs, telephones, railroads and mines, and the principle of referendum in all legislation."

With the exception of the clause referring to the government ownership of railroads, telegraphs and telephones, the platform will probably be favorably received and adopted without discussion.

The Auditing Committee, consisting of J. F. Valentine, national vice-president of the Iron Moulders' Union of San Francisco; J. W. The Pooling Bill Comes Up Tomorrow:

A Pierce Struggle Expected Over the Income Tax Appropriation.

An Election Contest from North Carolina—The Democratic Steer-ing Committee—The Nica-ragua Canal Bill.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.-The sccon ession of the House promises to witness a flerce struggle over the incom tax, in connection with the appropria tion to be incorporated in the Urgen Deficiency Bill, to provide for the col-lection of the tax, which begins January 1, 1895. Mr. Sayers, chairman of the Appro priations Committee; intends to cal up the bill on Tuesday, after the Rail road Pooling Bill is disposed of. Mr. Bartlett of New York is at the head of the opposition to the appropriation, and although the opposition is not considered strong enough to defeat the appropriation, it is expected that the debate will abound with aerimonious references to blood will be manifested. The considera-tion of the income-tax appropriation may consume several days.

Tomorrow is District of Columbia day and Tuesday the fate of the pooling bill will be decided, as Mr. Patton of Tennessee, in charge of the measure, ha given notice that at 3 o'clock on tha day he will demand the previous ques tion. The general opinion is that the bill will not pass as reported, but will probably carry when amended so as to give to the Interstate Commerce Commission absolute control of the condi-tions of railroad pooling and final au-thority in the matter of revoking pool-thority in the matter of revoking pooling orders.

As soon as the Urgent Deficiency Bill which will follow, is out of the way, it is the intention of the Ar-ropriation Committee to bring forward the Fortification Bill. The Nicaragus Canal Bill will not be brought up this week. Thursday next, according to notice served, Mr. Brown, chairman of the Elections Committee, will call up the North Carolina election case of Williams vs. Settle. There case of . Williams vs. Settle. There electron case of Williams vs. Settle. There is little doubt that Mr. Settle (Rep.) the sitting member, will retain his seat.

The week's programme in the Senate will depend largely, if not entirely, upon the decision in the Democratic steering. committee with reference to the amend-ment in which the bills preferred by the Democratic caucus are to be taken up.
This point was left entirely to the steerling committee, which Senator Gorman, its chairman, says will probably meet Mon-day. The committee will then, or at some subsequent meeting, decide whether the Nicaragua Bill, Bankruptcy Bill, the New Mexico and Arizona bills, the Indian Ter-ritory Bill or the resolution for the elec-tion of Senators by the people shall have preference. It is not supposed by any one that a currency bill has yet been formu-lated. I do not allow myself to repine over my own reverse, and as to the general disaster. I am confident that the people will soon learn that the Democratic party did not deserve any such chastisoment at their hands, and will come back to us as passionately as they seem to have left, us. This has been emphasized by Secretary Herbert's recent recommendation that several new battleships be authorized by Congress. difference of opinion among authorities.

"We need them both," said Mr. Geissenhainer, "for while one has some advantages over the other, they are both good in their respective fields."

He was asked if the sinking of the crack battleship Victoria has not weakened the advocacy of that class of vessels.

"No." he said, "there is the possibility of accident to the strongest of ships." He was asked why it was that Japa won victories with her cruisers while China had been defeated with her battleships.

"That shows," said he, "that we need cruisers also. But Japan would certainly have not been weakened if she had had battleships also. The United States should have them both as auxiliaries to each other, as each can serve as well in its proper shore."

How Miss Ging Was Murdered.

Janitor Blixt Also Makes a Confession.

His Part, He Claims, Was Only Helping to Dispose of the Body.

Deep-laid Plot of the Assassin-Other Crimes Charged to Him-A Cold-blooded Undertaking.

MINNEAPOLIS (Minn.,) Dec. 9.-If the nfession voluntarily made by Blixt, the janitor of the Ozark flats, in the presence of Mayor Eustis, the County Auditor and the Chief of Police today is true, Harry erine Ging and Blixt assisted him in disposing of the body. Blixt told of his first conversation with Hayward, , about one month before the murder. It was in regard to the holding up or killing of a Chicago man who had loaned Hayward $400, the object being to regain pos of any paper which the man might have Blixt's ignorance prevents him from giv-ing an intelligible idea of just what the transaction was to be, further than that there was to be a hold-up or a murder. Hayward proposed to send Blixt to Chicago and to have him return from that city when he was wanted. Blixt refused to go into it and says that Hayward went to Chicago

Upon returning from Chicago, Hayward broached another scheme to him, that of setting fire to a barn. He induced Blixt to commit the act, thus securing a peniafter this that the scheme to murder Miss Ging was broached. Hayward told him that she was completely in his power and that she would do anything he told her to. When the scheme of killing her was mentioned, Hayward told him that by killing her he would regain possession of $7000 which he had given her, and, in addition her life insurance to him. He offered Blixt one-fifth of the amount if he would have anything to do with the crime and threatened to guit then and there, whereupon Hayward stated that he would do it himself, saying: "I would as soon kill her as I would a dog." This was about a week ago.

In his confession Blixt makes no reference to the ride Miss Ging took November 27. Hayward's first plan, after he con-27. Hayward's first plan, after he con-cluded to commit the crime himself, was outlined to Blixt. There was in the base-ment a "T" rail about two feet in length. Hayward directed Jantor Blixt to cut this in two, stating that he would take Miss Ging riding and no one would see him with her. After he struck her over the Ging riding and no one would see him with her. After he struck her over the head with the iron bar which he would carry concealed under his coat, he intended to throw the body out of the carriage against a curbstone, start his horse on a gallop and then tell the story of a runaway accident. He calculated that the body would appear to have been thrown from the buggy when it collided with the curb.

Monday night Hayward met Blixt, and by threats and persuasions and promises of money induced him to be a partner in disposal of the body, and make it easy for Hayward to commit the crime and refor Hayward to commit the crime and re-turn unobserved into the city, so that it could have been the guilty party. Hayward directed Blixt to proceed at 7:30 p.m. to point on the Excelsior road where body was found, and there to await his coming. Blixt followed out his instructions to the letter. He had been at the point designated about five minutes when he heard a shot and saw a carriage aproaching. As it drew near he recognized Hayward as the driver. Hayward said to back slowly and give me plenty of time to get back to town, and do not leave her until you make sure she is dead."

Hayward got out of the buggy and Blixt got in. The woman was on the lost-hand side. Blixt did not look at the woman, was dead was because she did not move. He drove up the Excelsior road a piece, then, alighting, started the horse and took a street car into the city. The horse, he says, started off slowly, and then broke a trot. Hayward arrived at the Ozark he took Miss Bartelson to the theater. Several hours after having made the above confession Blixt called the Mayor and Chief of Police to his cell and said he fired the fatal shot himself. He then went on to tell that Hayward had persuaded Miss Ging that "green goods" could be easily circulated through the medium of her business as a dressmaker. She fell in with the idea, and when, on the night of the murder, Hayward had told her that he had arranged for her to meet a "green goods" to the commercial depression of the commercial depression. with the idea, and when, on the night of the murder, Hayward had told her that he had arranged for her to meet a "green goods" dealer on the outskirts of the city, and they started off on the ride together. It was scanned with great interest as it gave the first exact details of the instrument by which the United States formally recognizes Japan as a first-class power in the sisterhood of nations. A rough summary of the treaty, based on guess work and conjecture, had previously been given, but the publication through the Associated

the publication through the Associated Press was the first opportunity to inspect a verbatim copy of the document which is guarded with the strictest secrecy.

The treaty shows how fully the United States has accorded Japan the recognition she has now as an enlightened modern. she has now as an enlightened modern nation. All previous treaties have been based on the theory that the relics of Eastern barbarism still remain with Japan. The provisions of the treaty, that if must be ratified within six months, makes it in-cumbent for the Senate to act on it at the present session or the treaty will fail. There is every probability, however, that the Senate will act promptly.

THE RAILWAYS.

A REPORT OF THE INTERSTATE COMMISSION.

Gross Earnings for the Last Fiscal Year Nearly One Thousand Million Dollars—Passengers and Freight.

Associated Press Leased-wire Service.
WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—The Interstate Commerce Commission has just issued a preliminary report on the income and ex-penditures of the railways in the United States for the year ending June 30, 1894, prepared by its statistician. The report contains the returns from 570 operating 85 per cent. of the total operated m in the United States.

The gross earnings from the operation of the 189,559.21 miles of line represented were $949,639,975, of which $300,127,142 were from passenger service, $617,958,493 was from freight service and $22,420,298 was for earnings from operation, covering receipts from telegraph, use of switching charges, etc. The operating expenses were $843,428,331, leaving net earnings of $306,210,734. Reduced to a mileage basis, the earnings from passenger service were 22067 per mile of line; from basis, the earnings from passenger service were $2067 per mile of line; from freight service, $4132; total gross earnings, $6350; operating expenses, $4302, and net earnings, $2048. A comparison of these items with similar receipts from the complete report of the previous years shows a decrease per mile of line in earnings. from passenger service of $53; in earnings from freight service, $754; in total gross earnings of $840; in operating expense of $572 and in not earnings of $366.

The total number of passengers carried was 505,285,466; passengers carried one mile, 12,888,926,578. Number of tons of freight carried, 571,855,942; tons carried one mile, 70,426,244,235. In order to show the volume of traffic for all the railways fixed charges and dividends was $306,210,-744 as against $350,766,607 for the same roads for the previous year, a decrease of $44,555,861. The dividends paid were $62,-664,961 as compared with the $66,461,130

664,961 as compared with the 300,101,130 for 1893.

Regardless of the decrease in traffic there has been a decline in rates during the year, the average receipts per passenger per mile being 1.976 cents compared with 2.18 cents in 1893 and the average receipts per ton per mile 8.8 cents, as compared with 8.78 cents in 1893.

LONDON, Dec. 9.—(By Atlantic Cable.)

Two ladies of the New York Sun correspondent's family were making calls just after dark yesterday in Kensington. They had some difficulty in finding the address of a friend, and, not seeing a policeman, stopped to inquire the way to Queen's Gate Terrace of a group of four recovery when becaused to be approaching. women who happened to be approaching.

Before they had time to speak two words of their question the four women turned and fied, with levery evidence of sudden terror. The ladies walked on a few terror. The ladies waiked on a rew steps, met two more women and attempted to make the same inquiry. The second couple seemed seized with even greater alarm than the first group. They gath-ered up their skirts, ran across the street ered up their skirts, ran across the street and away, without waiting to hear the question.

This extraordinary power to put the British maids and matrons to flight by a word so amused the two American women that they tested it once or twice more, with the same result, except that one woman retained sufficient self-possession to call back "don't know" over her shoulder, as she ran away. The incident furnishes striking proof of the literal reign of terror now prevailing in one of the most fashionable quarters of London, by reason of the series of strange crimes, about which the cable has already told. A mysterious veiled woman in black, whose mania is to stab others of her sex, has appeared no less than five times A mysterious veiled woman in black, whose mania is to stab others of her sex, has appeared no less than five times within a week in a district less than half a mile square, and, although scores of detectives are lying in wait for her, she is still at large. In each case she has approached her victim with an inquiry about a certain street. The first victim lost an eye, the second was stabbed in the neck, marrowly escaping death. Fear of her was now widespread, so that the others she accosted fied before she could strike them. There is some suspicion that she is a small man in disguise, as all describe the person as having a gruff voice, but the police believe it is a woman, and that she is undoubtedly insane.

There is no direct connection between these crimes and Young Saunderson's murder of an abandoned woman in the same Kensington district, but certain experts in mental diseases and criminologists endeavor to trace the epidemic of violent crime in London to a single source, namely, the great public agitation over the South End murder, the very mysterious crime for which Read was hanged last Tuesday.

The matter has given rise to an interesting public discussion begun by Dr. Forbes Winslow, who, perhaps, is the highest English authority on such subjects. He writes: "The force of imitation is so great that an irresistible impulse exists in a certain class of individuals, who, though at large, are, nevertheless, in such a state of mind as to warrant their detention. I allude to weak-minded persons, considered harmless, between 15 and 30 years of age, of excitable instinct, without occupation for their minds and who waste their spare time in gloating over accounts of various crimes, or are seen hanging about the Old Bailey on the day of some criminal cause celebre. "Jurisprudence is full of homicidal epidemics. The terrible murders perpetrated by Mme. de Brinvilliers in France may be forgotten, but what occurred at that time is instructive. During the trial all Paris was in a state of great excitement. The murderess was the sole topic of conversation. All the details of the crimes were greedily devoured, and the idea of secret poisoning, the offense she was accused of, was put into the heads of hundreds, many of whom became guilty of it. For two years the poison mania kept hold of the popular-mind, and the prisons of this crime. I could give hundreds of instances where murder, suicide, incendiarism and poisoning have had imitators. "At the present time a case has occurred which bids fair again to agitate and upset the public mind, especially those who are insanely or morbidly inclined. The evil is a great one, and the remedy is yet to be discovered to prevent a series of crimes following epidemically. I would sug-The matter has given rise to an interest

I would sug-gest, first, curtailed and non-sensational accounts of such crimes; second, it is most important in my mind that the date of execution be, as in France, secret, and that the criminal have notice-the evening be-fore."

In connection with young Saunderson' insane crime and Kensington stabblings, the authorities have been extremely alarmed, lest another "Jack, the Ripper" scare should seize upon the popular mind. This led them early in the week to make the important support the important announcement that they have reason to believe that the author of the "Jack, the Ripper" crimes has beet several years in his grave. The Munis collec-tion of skulls now in possession of the Bureau of American Ethnology exhibits many specimens of ante-mortem trepan-ning, far superior to anything else before observed among other aborigines of the New World. In some instances the incisions are narrow, long and straight, usu-ally at right angles. The cutting might have been made with an arrowpoint held vertically and drawn backward and forward, making a taper incision. In other instances the direction of the cutting was ward, making a taper incision. In other instances the direction of the cutting was completely changed, so as to saw an elliptical piece out of the skull, the rough tool marks afterward scraped smooth. Yet again, in other examples, the entire process appears to have been effected by scraping, the aperture being circular. It is evident, however, that once in a while the operation was post-mostem, as not even an aboriginal of low grade sensitiveness could have as many as twenty discautiout of his skull and live through the ordeal. What became of the discs is not known; they may have served either as trophies or as charms. One of the skulls, doubtless that of a young woman, had been subjected to successive operations to relieve epilepsy or like trouble, and, at last there was a large opening—four inches wide. This hole was covered by a silver plate, and the plate was found in the mummy case with the remains. It is not denied that the operations may often have been dictated by a desire for the expulsion or release of evil spirits; but there are all the indications that intelligent pulsion or release of evil spirits; but there are all the indications that intelligent surgery presided over attempts to remedy cranial fracture and cure or alleviate certain diseases of the brain.

NEW PROCESS OF GAS MAKING As the result probably of sharp compe-tition in one form and another, gas-making tition in one form and another, gas-making and consumption have undergone many improvements in recent years; indeed, at least one gas expert has claimed that the gas art has made greater advances than the electric lighting art in the same period. Of course the great objection remains that there is a naked flame using a certain proportion of the necessary constituents of a healthy atmosphere; but the vast majority of people are still very indifferent to this, provided their illuminant is cheap. A new process is said to be creating a sensation in lighting circles, and its origin is very curious. In prosecuting work for the electrolytic reduction of refractory oxides to yield alumination. prosecuting work for the electrolytic reduction of refractory oxides to yield aluminum, T. L. Wilson found that large quantities of calcium carbide were producible, from which acetylene is readily obtained. Now acetylene has remarkable illuminating power, but no method has hitherto been known for its cheap production. It is stated that a burner taking 1 to 1½ suble feet of acetylene per hour affords a beautiful clear, white light fully equal to fifty candle-power, while the cost puts it on more than a parity with that of existing methods? It will be seen that there is here the promise of much cheaper lighting of a better kind. The only objection to the new gas of any importance noted thus far, has been a tendency to smoke a little when turned down low, but this is easily cured, and in oil lamps has been endured for centuries.

AN OBSOLETE EMERY INDUSTRY.

Naxos, one of the largest and most famous Cyclades Islands of Greece, has from time immemorial produced emery on a large scale, but times are changing, and unless resort is had to scientific engineering, the glory of the place will have fied. Two villages have had the monopoly of emery mining, and have sent out daily about 600, workmen, who, in the most archaic fashion, have set to work. The rock has been exclusively broken up by fire, the method being to clear the space, pile brushwood on it, light a fire, and, when the fire is dying out, throw water on the glowing rock to split it. Under such conditions, only the surface strata could be utilized, but these are played out, and the supply of brushwood is played out also. Experts who have been consulted by the Grecian bovernment have recommended the resort to systematic quarry borings, the use of powerful explosives, wire ropeways and other familiar appliances. In the meantime, the Naxos industry is practically at a standstill, and other depositeleswhere have things all their own way, because they are properly handled. It is said that in the United States the development of large corundum beds in North Carolina is doing much to modify the state of the industry.

ROADWAYS TO THE ROOF. Modern invention has been not a little busy with improvements in the arrange-ments and fireproof qualities of the thements and fireproof qualities of the theater. It has been sought to render access to any part of the house easy, and egress immediate. But the furthest advance in this direction is probably that found in the new operahouse for Buenna Ayres, South America. It will be the largest place of the kind in the world. The stage will accommodate 800 people, and the proscenium will seat 5000 spectates. The house is so designed that box-holers can drive their carriages right up to be tier upon which their box is located. It has been suggested that a feasible an practical counterpart of this scheme would be to revert to the antique form of thearer, and to excavate a huge hole is the ground, so that while the stage would still be in the same relative positing to the upper gesieries, the "gods" wold, after all, be only on the level of the face. But such theaters would not be very fopular in the tropics.

HIGH SMOKESTACKS FOR FACTORES.

Aside from the fact that tail chimiys are better for the public health, by iting the deleterious products of combition far into the upper air, it would sen that technical considerations alone mighter ecommend them. But there has been fad lately for low chimneys in factories and W. B. le Van expresses the weight opinion that they are a mistake. As the first cost, there is no saving over a high well-proportioned chimney, and the entire drift of manufacturing requirements demands the building of high chimneys, so as to enable more fuel to be burned in a given time and space, thus increasing the power and output of the boilers. A rapid draught is equivalent to a large fire-grate area, and has the advantage that the heat is transmitted much more rapidly to the boiler, by reason of the higher temperature, obtained. Moreover, in many industries, the goods produced are liable to be spoiled by smoke and smut permeating the lower strata of the atmosphere.

AMERICAN IRON FOR EXPORT. AMERICAN IRON FOR EXPORT.

AMERICAN IRON FOR EXPORT.

British and Belgian iron manufacturers have hitherto had a virtual monopoly of foreign markets outside the United States, but the recent assignment to an American house of an order for the cast-iron pipe for the Tokio (Japan) waterworks, is cause for congratulation to protectionist and free-trader alike. The order is for 10,000 tons, in sizes from nine to thirty-three inches, the price is $370,000, and the average is, therefore, $37 per ton. The pipe is of Southern make, and will be shipped from Southern ports. There was active competition from those who had been in control of such markets, and who saw what lay behind a defeat. In pigiron alone, Great Britain and Belgium export about nine hundred thousand tons per annum, but this trade and that in manufactured products is what our manufacturers are after. At the present moment there is great activity in the street-railway field, in Cuba, Mexico and other countries within our sphere of influence, and it is said that, while the capital may come from Europe, the cars, rails, engines, etc., will be supplied from the United States. The American use of structural steel in buildings is also having its effect abroad, and the use of steel in fireproof feoring is carried much further here than anywhere else, leading to an export trade.

PHOSPHATES AND FERTILITY. PHOSPHATES AND FERTILITY.

According to a lecture delivered before the Franklin Institute of Philadelphia by Dr. Francis Wyatt, 1,000,000,000 acres are under cultivation in this country and under cultivation in this country Europe, yielding an average of one of crop per acre. The depth of the is nine inches, and the contents in p phates is 4000 pounds per acre, mal 2,000,000,000 tons to the whole cultivarea. Every ton of crop takes 40 pound phosphate out of the soil, so that 1,000,000,000 tons of crop carry away 000,000 tons of phosphates every year. this is possibly recovered by natural cesses from the farm itself and adjacountry. But there is a yearly defict 10,000,000 tons, and this would entail a lute sterility of the soil in 200 years. Mistricts are now in such a worn-out dition, in others the farmers have reso to phosphatic fertilizers, and hence ments in it make it bulk for bulk, equal to the best superphosphates, and England is now using from 10,000 to 20,000 tons a year of it, with every prospect of rapid in-crease. In the preparation of this slag for farm use, it is ground so fine that 85 per-cent, will pass through a sleve having 10,-000 holes to the square inch.

Woman's Opportunity. (Iowa State Register:) A hright and capable Des Moines lady suggests that there are numerous women in Iowa willing to accept the Governorship of the State, at $4100 a year, and capable of giving satat $4100 a year, and capable of giving satisfaction to the people in the administration of the executive and social duties of the position. There is no doubt of the truthfulness of that suggestion in view of the fact that very few lowa women have incomes to the extent of $4100 per annum, and the further fact that they mainly rule the government, the business and the social customs of all lowa. If the ladies—may God bless and preserve the purity and goodness of all of them—will only aid in preserving the song birds of all the world they will soon demonstrate their capacity for government without being compelled to accomplish their good objects through the intervention of their husbands, fathers, brothers, etc.

TROTTING AND PACING RECORDS.
Should the weather permit the probabilities are that several of the world's trotting and pacing records will be shattered on the local track before the current year of grace is ended, now that the champions are, on the ground. Since it is no easy matter nowadays to keep track of the oftchanged records the following table of the best performances of the light harness and side-wheel brigades will doubtless prove of interest:

When the flyers were taken from the cars on Saturday at Park Station they were in the best of spirits and seemed to have stood the long journey remarkably well. Ed Geers, the veteran horseman, has charge of the Hamlin stable, and Andy McDowell that of the millionaire of Pleasanton. McDowell took out several of the California horses for a jog around the track yesterday morning, and he declared that they were in prime condition.

In the afternoon Mr. Salisbury arrived, and he at once drove out to see his pets at the park. When he reached there quite a number of visitors had gathered to get a look at the turf champions, and one and all crowded about the wealthy horseowner as he went from stall to stall. Mr.

Salisbury is quite an old man, and, although he has a good-natured face, he seldom smiles, and only on rare occasions laughs. He is quite deaf also and inclines his head whenever spoken to, in order to catch what the person addressing him may be saying. Horse-breeding and racing is a hobby in which he takes much interest.

Mrs. Severance, who owns a number of speedy horses herself, and who is almost as well posted on records of the turf as many of the stablemen who make this their business, was on hand yesterday afternoon when Mr. Salisbury alighted at the track, to inspect and admire the fine points of the great racers. After the chief attraction had been duly inspected Salisbury led the way around to his stables. Azote, Flying Jib and Alix were the subjects of much attention, which was also lavished upon the black wonder, Directly.

Fantasy is a member of Mamilin's stable, and her admirable condition is in keeping with that of the other horses. Hal Pointer is decorated with a rough coat at present, her having been turned out to pasture for a number of months past. The big boy put his ears back in an unfriendly manner whenever his stall door was disturbed yesterday and gave the visitors anything but a pleasant welcome.

Athletic Club Notes. THE TRAMPERS' ANNEX-THE CROSS COUNTRY WALKS.

The frequent cross-country walks of the Trampers' Annex are serving to make the organization one of the inost popular clubs in the city. Their trip to the East San Gabriel Hotel on December 2, was one of the most enjoyable of the many similar occasions held under the cuspices of the annex, and was the cause of adding some new recruits to the ranks of the trampers. A fine camera, one of the recent additions to the outift, was called into play a number of times, the result of which was a number of fine pictures.

After dinner at the hotel, the party assembled on the lawn, where they were soon engaged in having a rollicking good time.

The next outing of the Transpers' Annex will be held on Sunday, December 23, and will consist of a trip to San Pedro by train, and from there cross-country to the lighthouse, a distance of about three and a half miles. Arrangements will be made to have the premises open to the inspection of the party op that date, and one of Uncle Sam's lighthouses being a novelty to most people, the occasion will undoubtedly be participated in by a large crowd.

The monthly entertalument of the club will take place between "hristmas and New Year's, but whether it will be a "ladles' night," or a "hoaers' night," has not as yet been decided upon.

HANDICAP CHESS TOURNAMENT.

The bandicap chess tournament played by twenty of the Los Angeles Athletic Club members, was concluded last week. It proved an interesting contest throughout, and showed a marked gain in the strength of several players over their form of a year ago. The competitors were divided into four classes, the first class giving the odds of pawn and two moyes, knight and move, and rook and pawn respectively, to the second, third and fourth classes.

S. Lipschutz, the champion chess player of America, acted as referee. Five handown of America, acted as referee. Five handown chess trophies, donated by the club and G. H. Gould of Santa Barbara, were won as follows:

First prize, C. F. Pierce (class 1) won 16 games, lost 1, drew 2.

Second prize, G. A. Miller (class 2) won 16 games, lost 3, drew 2.

Fourth prize, R. S. Cusner (class 3) won 12 games, lost 7, drew 0.

Fifth prize, H. H. Kerchoff (class 4) won 11 games, lost 7, drew 0.

Baseball. TWO GOOD GAMES AT ATHLETIC PARK.

The two ball games at Athletic Park yesterday afterroon, between the Stars and Wilsons, and Keatings and Telegrafos, were very interesting contests, especially the first, between the Stars and Wilsons, which was one of the hardest and most exciting games that was ever played at Athletic Park. It took twelve innings to settle it, and the Wilsons came out victors by a score of 4 to 3. The features of tors by a score of 4 to 3. The features of the game were the batting of the Stars, the fine pitching of C. Thomas, and the fielding of Whaling.

The second game was also a good game and, with the score 5 to 5 at the end of the seventh inning, it was declared a draw on account of darkness. The feature of the game was the battery work of Horton and Kaymer.

The Wheelmen. THE PERCENTAGES OF THE LEADING RIDERS.

The wheel papers have been figuring up the percentage of leading riders.

Sanger, of course, heads the list, as the big Milwaukee rider has worked hard all the season, going in every race where possible.

the season, going in every race where possible.

Sanger beat the stars 125 times and was beaten by them forty-seven times. By the stars I mean the fastest men in the national circuit, Baild, Johnson, Tyler, Bliss, Titus, C. Murphy and Cabanne. Ziegler and Wells, though belonging in this list, are not considered; as they rode in only two meets with the Eastern fiyers. Fosteer, who went to Denver, was unable to do his share of bringing prizes and glory back to California on account of sickness. When compared with the Eastern fiyers Ziegler's percentage for the work he did would show him the superior of them all. The little demon of San Joge rode three days at Denver and one afternoon at Pueblo and in that short time he administered an average of a half dozen beatings.

to each one of the Eastern stars, besides a host of others, some of which should, like Dr. Brown of Cleveland, be included in the first rank. In those four days Ziegler was beaten once each by Johnson, Brown, Bald and Titus, and finished in the bunch four other times.

Champion Ziegler's record stands thus: Eighteen firsts, five seconds and three thirds. Two of these thirds were in the half-mile and five-mile national championships, which he would have won if he had not ridden on the first day of his meeting with the world's fastest riders, before he had learned their style of riding. The other third was in a handicap race with Ziegler on scratch and the limit men with too big a handicap. Besides these twenty-six races the little demon rode against time at Alameda and ran away from his pacemakers, and in two races against horses in both of which latter wonderful time was made.

Charley Well's record for the season is ten firsts, six seconds and three thirds. The other class B men rank in the following order: Foster, W. A. Terrill, T. Deimas, Alexander, Haley H. Smith, Cushing, Al Jarman, Long, Edwards.

Dempsey and Ryan.

THEY WILL COME TOGETHER NEXT SATURDAY NIGHT.

On Saturday night next the great battle between Jack Depmsey and Tommy Ryan will be fought in New Orleans.

From information received from the training quarters of both men it has been learned that they are training faithfully and will enter the ring in fine condition. Whether or not Dempsey will be the Non-pariel of old femains to be seen. Those best posted in pugilistic matters declare him to be but a wreck of his former self.

On the other hand, Ryan is in his prime. He has the advantage of youth over Dempsey and has not lived at so rapid a pace. His constitution is therefore unimpaired and he will be prepared to put up the fight of his life.

Ryan will also have an advantage regarding weight, as, he can weigh at 145 pounds much more easily than Dempsey. Taking everything into consideration, it looks as if Ryan has the best of the situation, as he is generally supposed to be as clever as the Nonpariel.

According to a Boston dispatch, Dr. Carroll D. Williams and G. H. Wilton of that city have been trying a few experiments by the way of studying the effects of blows on the laws When Dr. Williams struck himself with moderate force with his fist on the right side of his clenched jaw, a alight dizziness and disagreeable sensation of the pulse. When muscular resistance was offered no effect was produced, and there was no alteration of the pulse. The same blow, with a little more violence, struck on the side of the relaxed jaw, half way from the point or and faintness, with pain in and around the left ear and a disagreeable feeling. The pulse at the wrist had suddenly stopped, then began rapidly for a few beats, then slowed to sixty, where it had previously been eighty. Fifteen minutes later the pulse had risen to sixty-eight, and the disagreeable sensation had passed off. These incomplete experiments give absolute proof to the effect upon the cerebrum to be feared from blows upon the point or angle of the jaw when so struck, therefrom transmitted to

Up to the present date only three cyclers have succeeded in girdling the globe. The first one to negotiate the journey with success was Stevens, who, in 1884, became famous by carrying out his project in spite of some fearful drawbacks. Many since have attempted to emulate him, but not until this year were such efforts of avail. Allen and Sachtleben completed the big ride not very long ago, after many weary months of toil. Lenz has not yet finished, but, as he seems very determined in his undertaking, and has managed to work through the worst portions of the journey, it is very likely that he will be the fourth to belt the world on a bicycle.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 8, 1894.—(To the Editor of The Times:) In Friday's issue of The Times I see that it is proposed to bring the matter of placing cuspidors at suitable intervals along the streets (for invalids to expectorate in) before the Board of Health. If an ordinance could be enacted that would effectually compel pedestrians to use these spittoons on the streets, it might possibly result in some good. good. While few intolligent physicians doubt the germinal cause of tuberculosis and its heredity, the question of its propagation by the bacilli in the sputa has not been fully settled by scientists, and those who contend that it is thus propagated are compelled to admit that the cases are "few and far between."

The question, however, of disinfecting or deodorizing the sewers is one of far greater importance, and one that cannot be met a moment too soon. There are few, I imagine, who realize the extent of the evil, and are slow to believe that the numerous cases of typhoid fever, diphtheria, and other low grades of fever that have prevailed in our city, are due to that enemy of health, the deadly sewer gas. It does its work so insidiously, so imperceptibly, but it does it surely.

In the storeroom, as well as the family rooms, occupied by the writer, where the sewage was supposed to be perfect, the presence of this gas was so apparent as to call the attention of the health office. A vent was made, at considerable expense, extending above the top of the three-story building, and we felt it safe enough to take out the plugs or corks that we had kept in the sinks to keep the foul air from coming into the house. A short time after these were taken out the house was found to be full of the foulest air, and on examining the sink in the kitchen we found not only foul air but foul water as well, pouring in from the sewer, and the stench was alckening in the extreme. Several of my neighbors, who have been at great expense to have good sewer connections, were served in the same way.

A number of, cases of fevers that have come under my observation in the past few weeks were due, I am confident, to this cause. In conversing with a lady a few days ago, who complained of headache, loss of appetite, nanges and feverish condition generally. I suggested the possible exist-

of appetite, nausea and feverish condition generally, I suggested the possible exist-ence of sewer gas in her house, as a cause of her allments. Her husband thought it impossible, but she determined to close the kitchen door, which before had always been left open. The next morning, when she opened the kitchen door, the foul air that left open. The next morning, when she opened the kitchen door, the foul air that met her was sickening to such an extent as to compel the opening of all of the outside doors and windows. A gentleman, suffering from typhoid fever, asked me to examine his premises for sewer gas. I did so, and found the kitchen a marvel of cleanliness, with several outside openings, and everything apparently sweet and healthy. I asked him if there were any other sewer connections. He said, "Yes, the bathroom." This I found to be a small, close, inside room, and the air extremely foul. He had been in the habit of going into this room for his morning bath, previous to his sickness, and I am confident contracted it there. There are some other causes that lead to sickness that it would be well to look into. A few weeks ago, for several evenings in succession, a fearfully foul air settled upon the southeastern part of our city, between Main street and the river, and the phenomena was variously commented upon, and a great many reasons given for it, the most feasible, however, is the following: It seems that a large number of dead horses and other animals had been collected and had been cremated just beyond the river, and the phenomena that part of the city. If this is a fact, I would suggest that the health and comfort of our citizens would be better subserved if the crematory for dead animals was removed to a greater distance from the city. These are all matters of far greater importance to our city and to our citizens than the providing of spittoons for them to spit in, on the streets, and should receive the earnest attention of the health officers as well as the City Council, for only by close attention to, and prompt remedy of fearful evils like these, can we hope to make our city what a kind Providence intended it should be—the healthlest city on the continent. city on the continent.

ESTEE.

The Hon. M. M. Estee has written a circular letter to his Republican friends and supporters, throughout the State (the letter is printed in another place) returning his personal thanks for their loyalty during the recent contest for Governor of California. Mr. Estee, in addition to acknowledge ing his obligations indulges in some reflections upon the unsuccessful result of the campaign so far as he himself was concerned. This is one of e unprofitable subjects for discussion to which only small space need be given at this late day; as it can hardly be expected that the defeated candidate will now make any admisas which would impeach his own judgment, course or utterances during the canvass. It is still our opinion. however, that the defeat of the Renominee for Governor ormal, needless and avoidable. Mr. Estee protests that he is and was the friend of law and order, and probably he is, theoretically; but what was actual attitude as a candidate toward the supreme question, the rail-way insurrection which threatened the peace of the country, if not the existence of the government itself, at very time when Mr. Estee was standing before the people of California as a candidate for the highest ofe in their gift? Did he openly, bravely, manfully, fearlessly oppose the madness which ruled the hour, or ounce the insurrection against public order? Did he stand forth for the cause of the peaceful and lawabiding majority against the unwar ranted aggressions, the despotic pro-scriptions, the insolent- usurpations and the revolutionary methods of the lawless minority?

No! he was silent and dodged the great issue at the supreme moment! Had Mr. Estee early come boldly out on the right side-the side of law and the people-we believe, as we live, beginning in the direction of right he would have been triumphantly elected Governor. As the mat-ter stood, with both of the principal that unquestioning faith in our future candidates uncommitted on this vital question-both of them occupying a questionable attitude-law-loving voters, men who place public order and popular rights above all other considerations, had no choice. Estee was no better than Budd-Budd no better than Estee in their estimation. Under these circumstances there was nothing in the political situation to turn the tide and give to Estee that sweeping majority which we are confident he would have received had he boldly championed the cause of the law-abiding majority-for the majority of this people do love law better than they love anarchy.

Mr. Estee indulges in some animadversions upon the course pursued in the campaign by the American Pro tective Association, whose members are supposed to have generally voted Mr. Budd. But perhaps if the Republican candidate had pursued a course the opposite of that which he did pursue touching the supreme issue; perhaps if he had risen in the emergency to that patriotic height which never fails to commend the author of it to his patriotic fellow-citizens—perhaps if Mr. Estee had grandly done this, he would have commended himself to the men whom he thinks turned against him without sufficient cause.

Certain it is that great opportunities such as that which M. M. Estee missed in the California campaign of 1894 do not turn upon so insignificant a pivot as the religious beliefs of a wife or of a typewriter. A full-grown man, with the heart of a patriot and a statesman in him, and the nominer of a great and justly dominant political party, is not beaten except for adequate causes.

OUR PAST AND FUTURE. The heavy winter rains are not such a matter of serious inconvenience to us as they were a few years ago. The past decade has been a season of marvelous transformation for Los Ange les. The big, overgrown provincial town has given place to a modern city, cosmopolitan in character, and certainly of the most modern type in architecture and public improvements. The old cobblestone and gravel sidewalks have all disappeared, and in their place we have miles upon miles of the finest artificial stone pave. The streets, which after a heavy rain, like that of yesterday, were almost impassable sloughs, will compare favorably with those of the best paved eastern cities. It astonishes us when we sit down and thoughtfully consider the transformation that has been wrought in our midst. Everywhere are our principal business and residence streets threaded by cables or electric lines. Everywhere has the dull yellow glimmer of gaslight given place to electric brilliancy. The low, one-story wooden business house has been supplanted by the three, four and five-storied brick. Our places of sement are substantial structures with all the modern requirements of luxury, beauty and comfort supplied. Our hotels and restaurants are well equipped, and we eat with as luxurious appointments as any city. Our when they come. half-dozen churches have been multiplied by scores; our homes are no longer of the inferior architectural order, but perfections of architectural beauty and design. In fact we have modern, beautiful city, its people characterized by enterprise and pub-lic spirit, appreciating the advantages which we possess, the rapid growth which we have made, and looking forward to still greater and more rapid unfolding in the future. We see here much of the spirit that has made Chicago what it is; much of the esthetic culture that has created Paris, and made Washington City one of the most beautiful capitals of the California is the fact that we raise here a great variety of products, while in most of the States they depend more or less on one or two great staples.

R. J. Dodge, ex-statistician of the Department of Agriculture, in a recent article in the Country Gentleman, makes a contrast between California products and those of Arkansas, for example, which shows the great advantage we are enjoying. He says:

"To produce more of the things we now import is an offense to many who hope to cure agricultural depression by importing in larger measure what we eat or wear. That we do not prowe do not find their production pro-fitable. Of many things this is not true, of others only true because farmers do not know how to produce them, and because they will not learn. Compare the agricultural products o moist and alluvial Arkansas with arid California. Cotton is the sole market crop of one, while nearly everything in California is salable elsewhere. crop of one, while hearry everything in California is salable elsewhere. There is overproduction in cotton and underproduction in fruit, whee and olive oil. Cotton is largely exported and brings cash, while the products of California are mostly used in this country and produce much more cash per worker, nearly every article taking the plate of some imported product. Now, the rub of this statement is, the average worker in California produces two or three times as much value as the worker in cotton produces. This is a solemn, suggestive and unassailable fact, which cannot be explained to mean anything else but that Pacific agriculture is supplying what we have purchased abroad, is cheapening fruits and enriching Eastern dictaries, and at the same time enriching the growers."

the growers.' There is much truth in this state should make every effort to still further extend the variety of crops that are raised here on a commercial scale. The Times has persistently warned horticulturists against the mistake of putting all their eggs in one basket, so that in case there is a fallure of one variety of crop, or if prices are unreasonably low for any crop there would always be something else to bring in revenue. The list of crops that might be profitably raised in this section has by no means been exhausted, in fact, we have only just begun to find out what we can do in the line of agriculture and horticulture. It is true that the varieties of fruit raised in California

have been steadily increasing from year to year, but even in that line there is yet much to be done. Among fruits that are still imported to a large extent and which might be profitably raised here there is, for instance, the Zante currant, enormous quantities of which are consumed every year for cooking purposes. The date, of which we import large quantities, might undoubtedly be raised successfully on the Colorado Desert, and in a few other warm sections. Outside of the line of fruits, there are such important crops as the sugar-beet, in the cultivation of which we have made a good start, and canaigre, a tanning plant, which is about to be tested in the San Joaquin Valley. Then there is ramie, a most valuable textile plant, from which most of the cheap silk now sold is manufactured. This plant has been successfully tested in California, and there was at one time much talk about starting a big factory, but the matter appears to have been allowed to drop. It would be easy to enumerate a dozen more im portant crops that could be raised in California, and undoubtedly will raised in course of time. We have already more of a variety than any other State in the Union, but that is no reason why we should not still further increase that variety. California has been wonderfully favored in the matter of climate and soil, so that there is scarcely a useful product known to man that cannot be success fully raised in some portion of the State. Such being the case, all we have to do is to take advantage of this fact and introduce as many dif ferent crops as possible. We shall thus place ourselves more and more upon an independent footing, and be in a condition to laugh at hard times

The opposition to Senator Perkins s casting about for some one to center on as a candidate for his succes sion. So far, the efforts have been bly without foundation, that Collis P Huntington is taking a hand in the fight and will endeavor to defeat the junior Senator, who has made a praiseworthy record in all the public positions he has occupied. George C. Perkins made one of the best Governors California ever had, and as a Senator, although but briefly in of fice, he has been above reproach. He is a safe, careful, honest honest to stoop to methods all too common in securing election to the Senate, and his re-election would not only confer honor upon the State, but would be a guarantee that the position was not secured by questionable methods. A large number of the members of the Legislature have been instructed for Senator Perkins, in cluding those from this county, and ne starts out with a vote that is formidable. He deserves to be returned for the two years' term, and all signs indicate that he will be. The talk about M. M. Estee for the place is the idlest chatter yet heard among the idle chatterers who are always posing as political prophets and states man-creators. Mr. Estee is out of the question. As promised in yesterday's issue chapters of a strong debate upon a sensitive public question-Rome ver sus the American Protective Association-"a question which, now that the elections are over, can be treated more distinctly upon its merits than before It is a debate that may prove to be an epoch-maker, and The Times will present both sides with the utmost impartiality-not, however, admitting lo-cal disputants into the arena at this

AT THE PLAYHOUSES.

IMPERIAL MUSIC HALL-This hou presented an enticing and entertaining bill last night to the usual big Sunday night audience. The specialties given by the performers of last week have been changed in nearly every instance, and, as a rule, for the better. George Harrison opens up the evening with his character turn, followed by the graceful and handsome Chinese fire juggler, Prince To To: May Devilliou, character dancer and singer; the Quigley brothers, in a rattling string of new jokes and extremely artistic wing dancing, and Sanford and Rice, in their unique German specialties, which never fail to bring down the house. Ward and Marten, banjo artists, made their first appearance, and achieved a decided success. They are very clever players of the homely but musical instrument, and were given four enthusiastic recalls. Russell and Ryder, in a knockabout and acrobatic act, made a big hit, and Toner and Froebel do an aerial specialty that is at once novel, daring and entertaining, but the great feature of the show is the two Sisters Sansoni, the female Sandows, who lift cannon balls and dumb bells weighing from fifty to 500 pounds, with wonderful grace and ease, crowning their feats of strength by one of them holding a plano and player, which rests on her knees and shoulders, her hands resting backward upon the floor of the stage They are great artists, and the resemblance of one of them to Sandow, the strong man, is not the least remarkable thing about them. BURBANK THEATER.—"The Corsican Brothers" showed to a light house last night at the Burbank Theater, but the weather was such that a large crowd could not be expected. The twin brothers, William and Willard Newell, played the title role as the brothers del Franchi, and went through their parts with their usual care and skill, and in the two dueling scenes in which one figures each time, their playing was especially effective. They were supported very well by the whole Burbank company, and the representation of Corsican and Parisian life was very interesting. The scene of the reconciliation between the two Corsican chiefs, Orlando, and Colonna, was very amusing to the audience, because the gory old banditti wanted so much blood and took such pains not to shed it. ATTRACTIONS TONIGHT.-The mos ATTRACTIONS TONIGHT.—The most ambitious theatrical attraction of the season will be given its initial presentation at the Los Angeles Theater tonight. "Aladdin, Jr.," David Henderson's great spectacular extravaganza, given by over 100 people, is the name of it. It is replete with brilliant stage pictures, glimpses of fairyland, groupings of pretty women, light and catchy music, and other engaging features to delight the senses of sight and sound. It is without doubt the most notable and expensive organization that has ever visited Los Angeles. Great houses are anticipated during the entire week.

I am not doing anything to bring me legislative votes, as the successor of Senator Perkins. In fact, I have tried to keep the politicians away from me. I have a good deal of business to attend to for my paper, and would like that I should not be disturbed in giving my whole time to its management. However, I am obliged to see every one who comes to see me, and listen to what they have to say. I am not making a fight for the Senatorship. Mr. Higgins stated that his visit had no political significance, but this was not generally believed. His movements were somewhat mysterious, and he showed no particular desire to talk except to a few of the so-called leaders in the privacy of his room. It is stated that the real object of Higgins's visit was in the interest of Hon. M. M. HE THANKS HIS FRIENDS FOR THEIR SUPPORT.

Hon. M. M. Estee has sent a circular letter to his friends and supporters throughout the State, thanking them for their support in the recent campaign. Following is a copy of the letter:

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 7, 1894.

My Deat Sir: I thank you and my other friends in the country for the splendid victory you won for the Reublican party. With all the combinations made against me personally, the interior counties, with rare exceptions, and those only in the great railroad centers, remained loyal. I say this without any criticism of the faithful Republicans in San Francisco; they, too, did their duty, but they were proportionately fewer in number—in fact, the country nominated me and the country supported me at the polls, and I wish to express to you, and through you to the Republicans of your county, my grateful appreciation of what was done by you and by them for our party and for myself. A few words will show the extent of these services: I received more than 10,000 plurality outside of San Francisco.

When I made more than 10,000 plurality outside of San Francisco.

When I made my first speech at the Wigwam, had an election then been held our party, owing to the railroad strikes, would have been overwhelmingly besten. But in time there was a decided change in our favor, and I, am gratified to believe I contributed something toward this result. I wish to say a word personal to myself. I have no newspaper to speak for me, and so have but a limited opportunity to deny slanders which were uttered against me. Neither before election nor at any other time did I, enter into any combination with any man or set of men as to patronage. I never recognized any faction in the party. I belonged to no clique in the party or out of it, but I maintained at all times my absolute independence of corporations, of individuals and of factions.

Let me as further, I fought for the suc-strikes, and the political trend which those strikes seemed to take in California, the Republicans suffered most. The Republican party is the party of law and order. I was and am for law and order, because the destruction of property by unlawful means, or the taking of human life, means the destruction of all government. This position antagonized some of the strikers. For nearly two months preceding the election I devoted all my time and energies to the canvass of the interior of the State. When I finally came to San Francisco, just before election, I was told that the so-called American Protective Association would oppose me and support my opponent, on the grounds, first, that my wife was a Catholic, and, second, that a lady stenographer in my office was also a Catholic, and that I had refused to discharge her for that reason. The drst charge was false, the last was true. In all my speeches I stated that I bealieved in them. But I also said, and I say today, that religious liberty is the fundamental doctrine of our American institutions, and that any secret political organization founded upon religious prejudice would, in the end, be dangerous to American freedom. My ancestors were all Protestants, my great-grandfather was killed in the war of the revolution; yet it seems I was not American enough for this so-called American Protective Association. It opposed me at the election, and was one of the factors in my apparent defeat.

It was claimed by some of my political opponents that I was a railroad man

It was claimed by some of my political

This was a slander. Look at the vote in the lower wards of Oakland and in Sacramento, and remember that these are the recognized railroad centers of the State. If the railroad company had been making my fight, and wished to see me elected. I certainly would have received at least the same relative vote there as I did elsewhere in the country, and as did the other nominees of my party.

The facts are that never during my life have I said a word or done a thing to sustain this charge. I have said, and still say, that if I were Governor I would use all the power of the State to enforce the life and property of every citizen. This would be my sworn duty. In a word, I would not trifle with the legal rights of any man, or imperil any intereset, be it ever so small; for the law must protect alike the life, the liberty, the property and the labor of all men.

THE FUTURE OF ART.

A French Artist Thinks America Will be its Stronghold. (Philadelphia Ledger:) M. Raffailli, the elebrated French artist, in an interview recently expressed the opinion that the decadence in French art was due to social eauses. For the future of art he considers America the most promising country. France is not so promising because it is in a state of complete anarchy, Germany because of its military regime, and En-because of its military regime, and England because the people are too industrious and practical and prefer household furniture to works of art.

"In my opinion," he says, "a single nation is henceforth in the condition to create a style responding to our desires for delicate and discreet comfort without great luxury, and that nation is the American people, still so much cried The American people, still so much cried lown among us, have the gift of inspiring ne with enthusiasm. but there exists, if I am to believe the general opinion manifested in their newspapers, a movement of ensemble in the country which may, perhaps, passing by this high direction, nevertheless lend itself to the opening up of a grand movement of domestic art.

"Then we would see a style arise emanating directly this time from a popular ideal, and I mean by this word popular an ideal arising among the best of us. Certainly there was over there, with the first formation of the great fortunes of the New World, a movement toward luxury, but if I refer to the tastes manifested by the purchases made in our country by the Americans of today, we must henceforth have another idea of their taste. In fact, today the most beautiful pictures, tapestries, books and furniture, take the road from France to America. I am certain that they will soon have, I repeat it, the imagination of a style of beauty of all the arts of the past in this, which will preside over the formation of this style; liberty in simplicity and in order."

At 3:30 o'clock p.m. Mr. Yatman spoke at the First Methodist Episcopal Church on the subject, "Lamb or Tiger, Which?" I have come this evening to present the Christ to you, who is ready to save.

East Side, commenced Sunday afternoon at 3 p.m. The results thus far have been exceedingly graitfying, considering the inclement weather. At the Congregational Church yesterday afternoon the house was crowded and the interest was deep. There was not a vacant seat. The gase of all was fixed upon Evangelist Pratt.

The great throng of people at the Presbyterian church at night was an encouraging sight, and the fact that denominations could drop their minor differences and unite as one was inspiring. The most cultured and critical are pleased with the manly efforts of Mr. Pratt.

After the singing of "Where Are the the Reapers?" Rev. George E. Dye invoked the divine blessing. Mr. Pratt gave an exposition of scripture, then Rev. Sterling offered prayer. Mr. Raglin and Mrs. Morfoct sang a duet entitled "All I Give to Jesus; it Belongs to Him." Mr. Pratt delivered a sermon from the words: "Can two walk together except they be agreed?" (Amos iii, 3.) He said, in substance: "Some questions in the Bible can be answered only in one way; this is one of those questions. Men have no right to be liberal with what does not belong to them. You can not be liberal with another man's money without being dishonest. You cannot be liberal with the multiplication table and say twice two are six; neither can you be liberal with a what soever a man soweth that shall he also reap."

At the conclusion of the sermon Rev. Hill offered prayer. Mr. Pratt then asked those who believed they could stand the tests mentioned to rise. Fully four hundred people were on their feet, Many more rose when asked if they desired to come into fellowship with Christ. Rev. L. F. Laverty offered the benediction.

NIGHT SERVICE.

NIGHT SERVICE. The night service at the Presbyterian Church was the most interesting of the course. Notwithstanding the rain and mud the beautiful edifice was crowded. It was imposing to see such a large throng of people united in soul-saving. After a service of song, Rev. Hill invoked the divine blessing. Mrs. Wiseman sang a beautiful sole entitled "Ashamed of Josus, Can It Be, a Mortal Man Ashamed of Thee?"

Rev. Laverty offered prayer and Mr.

Raglin and Mrs. Morfoot sang "Ye Must Be Born Again." Mr. Pratt daliyaras

Raglin and Mrs. Morfoot sang "Ye Must Be Born Again."

Mr. Pratt delivered a powerful discourse from the text which suggested the song. He said:

"Christ did not say to Nicodemus, 'You must do the best you can or about the best you can.' A man who does about right will just about be saved. It is not doing but being that God demands. Character, not works, is what God asks. If you get good character, good works will take care of themselves. Evolution is all right if you get the right thing to evolute. You cannot get spirit out of fiesh. The matter of the new birth is a scientific fact. One kingdom cannot enter the other. Chasms of contrast were presented between kingdoms. No man can change the nature with which he came into this world. He may educate the fiesh but he cannot submit himself to the will of God. Morality is good, but morality is not the marvelous change. Culture is good, but culture is mot the Christ nature. A man may be moral and not be religious. A man may be a church-member and be lost. There are members of visible churches who are not members of the kingdom."

The sermon was impressive and was listened to with rapt attention. When the request was made for those to rise who had experienced this change of heart, fully five hundred people rose to their feet. About forty persons of all ages rose, signifying their desire to be born from above. An after-meeting was held, at which about two hundred remained.

Mr. Pratt will speak tonight at the Congregational Church. Today he is invited to meet the Methodist ministers.

At Peniel Hall.

Large congregations gathered at Penial Hall three times yesterday, and listened with interest to Joseph Smith, who spoke with power and much eloquence. Mr. Smith is a bright, happy speaker, and he carried his hearers with him as he set forth the fuliness of the salvation of God in Jesus Christ. There was much interest and enthusiasm manifested throughout the meetings. There were seekers of salvation at every service, and more especially at the crowded afternoon meeting, when many found their way to the altar, and others rose all over the house to say that they had yielded to God. Mr. Pratt, the evangelist, was present in the morning, and opened the service with prayer. Mr. Smith continues these meetings at Penial Hall for three more days, closing with a holiness convention on Tuesday and Wednesday. Large congregations gathered at Penial

Other Church Services. CONFIRMATION SERVICES AT THE

EPISCOPAL CHURCHES.

The rite of confirmation was celebrated at the different Episcopal churches yesterday, Rt. Rev. Bishop Nichols officiating. Services were held at Christ Church in the morning, and eight candidates were presented by the Rev. A. C. Clark.

At St. John's, services were held at 4 p.m. The church was beautifully decorated with flowers, and appropriate music was rendered by the choir, under direction of Prof. Stevenson. Rev. B. W. R. Tayler had prepared a class of thirty, and the church was crowded with friends. The evening celebration at St. Paul's was also largely attended, the choir being ready with some of its fine selections.

Bishop Nichols delivered the sermon at each of the three churches, in his usual finished style.

THE ENGLISH LUTHERAN CHURCH.

Rev. M. H. Stine preached at the En-

each of the three churches, in his usual finished style.

THE ENGLISH LUTHERAN CHURCH.

Rev. M. H. Stine preached at the English Lutheran Church yesterday morning on "The Prayer Habit," basing his remarks on First Thessalonians v.17. The apostle speaks of a privilege as old as the race, said the speaker, a privilege enjoyed by peasant and king, pupil and master. It is as natural for a true Christian to pray as it is for a new-born babe to cry. The objections to the prayer habit on the part of unbelievers are many and varied. It is said God has made the universe with a certain amount of physical force which he cannot increase or diminish. Then, too, he does all things by law. He cannot depart from law to answer prayer. We reply we know that God has and does answer prayer according to the laws of the universe. When God was manifest in the fiesh He often answered prayer seemingly contrary to law or above the workings of law so far as we know them. For examples, read the account of the feeding of the 5000 with five loaves and two fishes, the stilling of the tempest and many other. Equally senseless is the objection that God, being a spirit, cannot produce physical results. A physical result is scarcely ever produced without a spiritual antecedent. The daily exercise of our own wills proves that God's will is infinite in power, therefore the results of its exercise are infinite. The prayer habit demonstrated its effects on the lives of the patriarchs and prophets. It called forth their own energies and purified their lives, so that, although full of imperfections, they were far in advance of their contemporaries. Futhermore, the wonderful deliverances, the stupendous achievements recorded in Old and New Testament history were in answer to prayer. The preciousness of the prayers of God's children is set forth in Revelation, where the elders are represented with "golden vials full of comporates. Futhermore, the wonderful deliverances, the stupendous achievements recorded in Old and New Testament history were in answer fort and help. It is only "wanist the Christian prays that he lives."

EAST SIDE BAPTIST CHURCH.

Rev. George E. Dye delivered at the East Los Angeles Baptist Church a helpful discourse on Sunday morning on "Revivals." He took for his text: "Wilt fhou not revive us again," and said: "We have the Evangelistic Bonarges in our beautiful city at this time, Pratt, Yatman and Smith. Revivals are bing discussed pro and con. Dead level religien, slow coach salvation is at a discount. People prefer to rush at a rapid rate, even if the axles on the Lord's charlot wax hot and kindle into a flame. Torrents of rain, washing out bridges and tearing up meadows are preferable to continued dry weather. Rains do a great amount of good, so do revivals. Men want revivals in business, why not in religion? Objections are made to revivals that they are 'mere temporary excitement.' True enough; Pentecost only lasted one day, but that one day changed the moral face of the globe. The revivals of 1857 culminated in a few weeks, but their influence goes on yet.

"Dr. «Crafts of Brooklyn lately sent out a hundred letters to preachers and Sunday-school superintendents and put simply the question: 'How many of you came into the church during revival awakening?' The answer was 'four-sevenths.' The best material in our churches is of revival seasoning. 'Will thou not revive us again, O Lord!' The hindering causes during revivals are cold members who force the evangelist to fish through the lee. Too many of our churches are packed in refrigerators. Indifference, prejudice and criticism are the ice cakes around pastors and evangelists. Criticism never saved a soul and never will. Prejudice is the cobweb of ignorance and indifference is the dry rot of the soul. Away with these follies:

"Before Christ raised the dead Lazerus the scene.' We must get the stone away from the sepulchre of souls 'dead in trespasses and sins' before Christ can help them. Roll away the stone of an inconsistent life and do your full duty. Shake off the yellow of the pass

UNITY CHURCH. At Unity Church yesterday morning the pastor, Rev. J. S. Thomson, delivered a sermon taken from the words: "It is sown an animal body; it is raised a spiritual body."—I Corinthians, xv. 44. His theme was "What Became of Christ's Body?"

"The body," said the speaker, "is an organic machine for the mind's manifestations, operations and experiences upon the earth. At death the body returns to dust, and the spirit to God, who gave it. The animal body will never be needed in the invisible world, but the spiritual body will rise out of the animal body, and grow into the form which the immortal soul will need for its existence in another world. This is Paul'sn doctrine of the resurrection: 'Flesh and blood cannot inherit the kingdom of God.' The gospels report that Christ appeared after death in his animal body. Theologians and physiologists give us various explanations and theories about the blood and water which flowed from the spear wound in Christ's side. John evidently regarded this matter as very peculiar and wonderful. A centurion had to assure Pilate that Christ was dead so soon, before he would give the body to Joseph. It is also said in Acts. 'Neither did His flesh see corruption.' If this statement is true, then the body was not allowed to mortify. What prevented mostification? After the spirit of Christ had been released from the body, animal life enough was left in the body to asve it from decay, and until Christ's spirit came back again to reanimate it. At the ascension, His powerful spirit caused the body to dissolve and to dissipate itself into its original elements. Christ must have had a beautiful form in the giorious part of the universe where He lived before His incarnation; and a body composed of fish, boney, water, milk, vegetables, fruits and grains would not be adapted to heaven. As He ascended to heaven, He resumed His former glorious body, and dropped the form of clay once for all. Paul felt that the spiritual body was sufficient without the earthly clog, and he rejoiced when he thought of deliverance from the 'ville body,' and from 'the body or this death,' and of his resumption of 'the houss from heaven.' It is a great comfort to know that after death we shall have a light, sound and beautiful spiritual body.''

TRINITY CHURCH.

Rev. A. C. Bane præched at Trinity

Rev. A. C. Bane presched at Trinity Church, yesterday morning, from John il, 10: "But thou hast kept the good wine Josus Christ, said the speaker, proved that He was the Messiah by doing signs and wonders. The first miracle of His public ministry He did by turning water into wine at the marriage in Cana of Gaillee. These signs and wonders were necessary because He came to a world of ignorance and doubters. But after the greatget of all miracles, His crucifaxion and resurrection, it was no longer necessary in order to prove His divinity.

When we consider that Christ was, for thirty years, preparing, and that His actual public ministry lasted only about three years, we are ready to ask: Why all this waste of time? These years of preparation were not misspent, but are suggestive of great wisdom. Moses, though 40 years of age, spent another forty years in Midian, in preparing for his mission, and John the Baptist lived alope in the wilderness, prior to beginning his work. Young people of today ought to lay the lesson to heart and spend more time in preparing for the future. Then we would hear of fewer failures and more useful lives. So it is in the spiritual life. Christians should spend more time in prayer and better prepare themselves for the weighty responsibilities that await them.

In stead of securing the most spacious hall in Jerusalem and inviting the applause of the multitudes, Christ chose to begin His miracles in the home in little Cana. Would that ministers of the gospel would lay this lesson to heart and instead of regretting it when their lot is cast in places of obscurity, they would remember that if their lives are hid with Christ in God, their labor will not be in vain. We have too much display now and too little of the spirit of Jesus. He came into the world to sanctify all phases of life, both in joy and in sorrow. In affliction we are more apt to look to God for help, but we need His presence most in joy, because we are more apt to force to satisfy seed and whenever they can invite Jesus. He blessed the marriage relation by His presence. Would to, God that the blessed jesus were present at more of our weddi

Bishop Goodsell preached at Central Methodist Episcopal Church yesterday morning from I. Cor. 1,17: "Lest the Cross of Christ should be made of none effect."

"I wish to explain this morning something of the meaning of the Cross of Christ." said the snaker. "We know that "I wish to explain this morning something of the meaning of the Cross of Christ," said the speaker. "We know that for centuries millions have been stretching out their hands toward this cross for help in time of need and for salvation. We know that it is the source of the mightest of all religions, and founded and built wholly upon love, but who has solved the whole meaning, and who has entered into the secrets of the Most High.

"First, let us go back to the time that the cross was erected upon Calvary, and that blessed form was nailed thereon. In this the cross meant the misapprehensions and misunderstanding of men. That supreme moment was the culmination of all that had gone before.

The cross stands also for the cruelty of men. There is no picture more appalling than that scene of the Saviour upon the cross, suffering and dying for our sins and for the sins of the whole world.

"Then the cross means the sinfulness of man. The cross is fairly covered with this one thought, the sinfulness of min. The cross is fairly covered with this one thought, the sinfulness of christ on the cross.

"On the divine side the cross stood for divine justice. Enough attention is not given to the fact that God is a God of; justice. He is a hater of sin and wickedness, and in His divine hatred of sin he must remove every stain of blackness and punish every disobedience to His law.

"Finally, God's meaning of the cross is divine purity, not what we think to be purity, but what God thinks to be purity. A purity that enters into motive, and in all things that we do desiring to show forth the character of Christ.

"We can be clean every day if we have been washed in the blood of the lamb shed on Calvary, and at last the cross will throw its radiance over the spot where you are dying, and on right up to the throne of God."

FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

Rev. A. C. Smither preached to a good audience yesterday morning at the First Christian Church upon "The Hindrances of the Progress of the Gospel as Set Forth in the Parable of the Sower." The failure of the gospel, said Mr. Smither, in subjugating the whole world and the hearts of man to complete obedience to Christ is not the fault of God or Christ, or the Bible, but in the soil, in the condition of the human heart. The parable very accurately divides the race into four comprehensive classes The first class is the wayside soil, the heart that is so trodden down by sin, so overcome by evil as to thoroughly resist the truth of the gospel. Buch a class is never reached by FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

the gospel. The second class represents the superficial characters who quickly accept the gospel, rejoice over it, but have no stability, no integrity within themselves, and are soon overwhelmed by satan, and the tricks and temptations of life. A large class of professed Christians are blighted and withered spiritually like the blade of wheat that has had no sustenance. The third class, that of the soil occupied, is composed of the gross bulk of the church membership. Three things occupy their minds, the cares, riches and pleasures of life. How comprehensive are these enemies of the progress of the gospel of Christ. How many are cumbered with hearts full of the cares of life. There is no room for Christ in their hearts. How the struggles for earthly possessions monopolize the souls of many. They are striving for earthly possessions rather for an heavenly inheritance. How many are emgaged in life pursuit of earthly pleasures, giving up life for enjoyment, for abuse of God given powers. What dreaded enemies of Christian progress are these.

The fourth classification is the fruitful ones. They have good and honest hearts in which to receive the truth. When it is received it is kept by the heart, neither carried away nor crowded to death. Then with patience, with suffering, enduring, and also with effort, persistence and continuance, they bring forth fruit, some thirty, some sixty and some an hundred fold. Remove the hindrances to the progress of the gospel from the human heart, and it would sweep round the world like a configaration and conquer it for Christ and the truth.

SIMPSON TABERNACLE.

At Simpson Church vesterday. Best C. C.

At Simpson Church yesterday, Rev. C. C. McLean spoke to a good congregation upon the text found in Romans i,16: "For I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ."

He who lives a genuine Christian life, said the speaker, lives an unselfish life. When you look within yourself and feel that you are not living a true Christian life, then you have reason to be ashamed, but not of God. We need to be bold and certain in our Christian life, not bold in our own professions, but bold in presenting Christ to the world. This gospel which is the power of God unto salvation, is the power with which we must be clothed, and on it we must depend if we would succeed in our work for the Master.

In regard to the break in the ranks of the Pacific Insurance Union, which promises to materially reduce rates all over the Coast, the San Francisco Chronicle of Saturday says:

"Arthur E. Magill has issued another circular announcing his position in reference to the Pacific Insurance Union. As he announced on Wednesday, he will continue to charge standard rates and, in that respect at least, will comply with the regulations of the compact. Though he will not cut rates, Mr. Magill will effect the same result in another manner, for he will make rebates upon premiums and pay excess brokerage, so that in the end the policy-holder will get his risk written in fact at a lower rate. The question of rebates is one of those ever-present topics of discord, which has had much to do with Mr. Magill's withdrawal from the compact. If any owner pays the premium upon his policy at the standard rate, and he is then handed back a rebate, it is obvious that he enjoys a reduction. That is what Mr. Magill 'ntends to do. His circular, which is addressed to agents, states that his companies, the Phoenix and the Home, 'although having retired from the Pacific Insurance Union, will continue to charge standard rates, but hereafter, in the matter of rebates and brokerages, will be equally as liberal as other companies. On this basis we ask a share of your favors."

"The Union will now encounter another dimcuity, for it is just as hard to hold an insurance broker to rules when a big company offers him unusual inducements for business, as to keep a fly from molasses. It will be noticed that Mr. Magill merely states that he will be as liberal as other companies. Every one on the street, however, knows what that means.

"Tinend to allow the rebates and to fix my own brokerage fees,' said Mr. Magill yesterday." There is no doubt in my mind, nor in the mind of any well-informed insurance man, I think that members of the union are allowing rebates contrary to the rules. I preferred to get outside and do it. That is the situation. This matter of cantile business, for the different offices are so intimately connected through reinsuring and writing risks upon the same buildings that we always know just about what the other fellow is doing. I think the many recent objections to the plan of business of the union will have the effect of causing its reorganization. This proposition has been discussed at various times, and I think that it is now about time for some action to be taken in the matter. All insurance men admit that a compact is necessary for self-preservation. The compact should, therefore, be organized upon such lines that the causes of all present grievances will be removed. LOST HIS WATCH.

A Motorneer Falls in with a Tough

James Cullen is in the City Jail, booked on a charge of robbery, and it is probable some of his companions in the transaction will be arrested and tried with him.

Last Saturday night Sim Collier, a motorneer on the electric cars, residing at No. 149 Rose street, was leaving the Red Front saloon on Main street, when a crowd Front saloon on Main street, when a crowd of four or five roughs came up just as he was looking at his watch, and Cullen grabbed it from his hand. Collier protested and attempted to get back the watch, but Cullen passed it to a neighbor, and they passed it about until it was impossible to tell who had it.

Collier reported the matter to the police, and yesterday morning Officer Walker arrested Collien and lodged him in the City Prison. He will appear before Justice Seaman this afternoon at 1:30 o'clock.

An Ever-bearing Orange. (N. D. Lindley in Tampa Times:) Mr

(N. D. Lindley in Tampa Times:) Mr. Simms, proper founder of this valuable fruit, says it is a true citrus vulgaris, found wild in the Apopka hammocks, without the bitter of the common wild orange of our hammocks. The tree has the characteristic of being in fruit the year round, and is without doubt a cross—the sour orange with the sweet—and of holding the fruit on the tree for months after they are fully ripe. The original tree has now both green and ripe oranges, and they are picked ripe, juicy and delicious any day in the year.

The fruit is more even in size and thinner skinned than the old one, with less rag and very few seeds, and for home use every garden from Tampa to Brunswick should possess it. It surely must prove valuable as a market variety. Only to think of it—a ripe orange picked from the tree before breakfast the year round! A guarantee is given by Mr. Simms that the original tree was found in the month of August, full of bloom, green and ripe fruit.

AS A WINTER RESORT

Coronado Has the Warmest Climate in

There throngs of tourists from all parts of the Onited States and Canada make the trip eve. y winter. It has long been the place of fashionable favor, until it now has become one of the popular winter resorts of America's people of note and refinement. Pleasure seekers and visitors of all classes are gratified without stint at the varied attractions, the abundance and character of the pleasures and pastimes provided for the enjoyment of guests at this favore 1 part of California. This may well be called the paralise of the sportsman, as here there is boating.

Coronado Agency, 199 North Spr. Los Angelo

The palatial dining-room of the Fitz

The palatial dining-room of the Fitzgibbons family opened upon the conservatory and the conservatory looked out to the south over the couple of acres of orange trees, the remnant of a once thriving orchard, on the south side of one of the principal mansions of Figueroa street, in the city of Los Angeles. Around the table, burdened with massive silver plate and the finest wedgewood china, sat George Augustus Henry Fitzgibbons, a retired army officer, his wife, and three daughters of certain and uncertafn ages, at the hour of the dramatic occurrence now to be detailed, an advent that plunged the family into solitude and caused the proud mansion to be almost as tenantiess as the old ruins of Capistrano. The setting sun cast a subdued light on the rich damask curtains that separated the artificial luxury of the dining-room from the conservatory, and threw a lustre on the works of art that only a California sun can on the expensive brica-brac from lands across the sea that lay in endless variety and exhaustless profusion in every corner. The Chinese waiters gilded in and out from the kitchen bearing the French dishes; and the pug on the hearthrug quietly blinked at the sparks that flew from the log burning in the fireplace.
But the Fitzgibbons family, while parvenu, were distinctly society people, for,
had not Mrs. Angelica Fitzrop Bernado Fitzgibbons been an unceasing applicant for all the honors of Los Angeles society ever since the price of the Fitzgibbons land increased on account of contiguous house-building? With all her sacrificing efforts the three Misses Fitzgibbons still, and no Lochinvar, from any point of the compass, had come to the Fitzgibbons household to claim his bride. Life is short and time is fleeting.

The dinner proceeded in the usual silence, unbroken save by the husky guffaw of the old gentleman, as glass after glass of imported wine evaporated in his presence. Suddenly the electric bell rang, and the footman, always placed at the front door during dinner, received a not from a messenger boy, which he immediately conveyed to the true master of the Fitzgibbons household—Mrs. Angelica Fitzgibbons bousehold—Mrs. Angelica Fitzgibbons Bernado Fitzgibbons. "Mercy, heavens! All is lost," exclaimed the matron. "Why, ms, what is it?" eagerly demanded Miss Verbena Tasso Waldo Fitzgibbons; "what is the matter?" "Read that to your fathera! exclaimed the excited lady, "and this after all my efforts—all is lost," The eldest Miss Fitzgibbons—Miss Tasso—read aloud the missive to the interested group:

"Dear Madam: The proprietors of the Los Angeles Blue Book beg to notify Mrs. Fitzgibbons, in reply to her note of tho 14th inst., inquiring as to the absence of her pame from the directory, that in consequence of the sign "No agents or peddiers admitted," suspended at the front gate—also the dog—their representative was unable to approach the house to obtain the names of herself and daughters for the directory, hence her name was unavoidable conflicted.

Three weeks after this occurrence, so narrated, Miss Verbena Tasso Waldo, Miss Penelope Pomona Berti, and Miss Mae Bessie Arlus Fitzgibbons entered the nunery of the San Franciscan Sisters de Capuchin.

Sugar-cane Cultivation.

"John Sullivan, a well-known farme lving two mile southeast of this city. ays the San Bernardino Sun, "brought easy the San Bernardino Sun, "brought to this office yesterday a stalk of sugar cane over ten feet high. It had attained that growth in just three months. Mr. Sullivan planted two acres of the sugar cane, and the stalk he brought in is only an average growth. The two acres produced between twenty and twenty-five tons, and he has been using it as a daily food supply for two months for ten cows. While the cattle eat it in preference to any other food, and while it keeps them in fine condition, he does not regard it as nearly so good for milk as aifaifa hay."

The Agricultural Department established a sugar experiment station in San Joaquin county some time ago, and from the results of this station Prof. Wiley, of the department at Washington, thinks the experiment proves conclusively that this whole section is well adapted to the growth of sugar cane. An effort will be made next spring to have appliances sent out for manufacturing and refining sugar from the cane, and, if it proves the success it promises, another important industry will be open to our people.

Judge Cooke, Recorder of Oxford, England, who died recently, was for twenty years a County Court Judge, in which capacity he frequently gave litigants before him a good-natured lecture on the foolishness of going to law with trivial disputes and vexatious actions, and often successfully advised them to settle their differences outside the court. He was more popular everywhere than among the solicitors.

Mr. Gladstone has never promoted his eldest son, the rector of Hawarden, or his son-in-law, the Rev. Harry Drew. There is not a single member of the family, male or female, who does not earn his or her daily bread, and there is not a title an them.

HE power of cash is greater than the power of credit.

This will be demonstrated Monday in the dress goods department. It is the time. It will be for one day. 250 pieces of dress goods that are regularly marked in stock from 60c a yard to 85c. The price Monday will be 50c for the choice. This includes every dollar's worth of dress goods we have in stock marked from 60c to 85c a yard. This will be for Monday only. Here is an advertisement that will appeal to every home in Los Angeles. Remember this means the cash must come with the sale. Here is another demonstration in bargain giving. Our entire cloak stock will be offered at a big reduction from the regular marked price. Every cloak, every cape, every fur garment and every shawl will be sold Monday at a big reduction from the regular marked price. For Christmas presents this is an opportunity that has never been equaled at this season of the year. One thing to bear in mind, this means the cash must come with the sale. These bargains are offered for cash trade We don't want the credit trade at any price. There has been the greatest gains in the trade of this house the past three months we have ever experienced in the same length of time, and every dollar has been for cash. There are great bargains in the Linen Department. A lot of remnants and odds and ends will be sold cheap Monday. Monday will be the greatest bargain day in all departments that has ever been known in a dry goods house in this city. Rain or shine the bargains will be all that any one could wish. Bring the cash with you, this is important. Remnants of silks and velvets; a big reduction; they are suitable for fancy work, for dress trimmings; the price will be in your favor. One of the best bargains that will be offerred on the big Monday bargain day will be children's cloaks. There is no cloak stock in this city that carries one-half as mary children's cloaks as we do. The prices on our children's cloaks have always been under the closest competition. We have always sold children's cloaks as a leader. Monday's price will be the lowest ever made on children's cloaks; but bear in mind the cash must come with the sale. Christmas dolls at a lower price for the finest dolls than you ever saw them sold for. The finest French bisque dolls with long natural hair, extra size $2, real value $5; this is the only doll in the city that the hair can be combed and braided.

"ALADDIN, JR."

Nine Cars of Baggage, Scenery, Prop-erties and People—An Inter-view with Manager David Henderson.

GANIZATION IN AMERICA.

The American Extravaganza Company, with "Aladdin, Jr.," and its nine cars of baggage, scenery, properties and people, rolled into the Arcade Depot yesterday morning about 4 o'clock. As soon as the cars were set an army of men and a score of wagons began the work of transporting the immense quantity of paraphernalia to the stage of the New Los Angeles Theater. Two or three days before the arrival of the company, some of the carpenters and electricians belonging to what is conceded to be the largest traveling organization in America, arrived to make preparations to be the largest traveling organization in America, arrived to make preparations upon the stage for the presentation of the spectacle. Thus everything was in readiness to receive the wagon loads of scenery, the scores of trunks of oriental costumes, and the masses of properties, which are to be seen tonight upon the stage of the Los Angeles Theater.

"It will take from now until tomorrow night," said Manager David Henderson, in reply to a question by a Times reporter upon the stage of the New Los Angeles Theater, yesterday morning, "to arrange night," said Manager David Henderson, in reply to a question by a Times reporter upon the stage of the New Los Angeles Theater, yesterday morning, "to arrange all the details and have everything in its place for a perfect performance. I have always aimed, and with very rare exceptions succeeded, in giving upon my opening nights as perfect a performance as if the piece had run in the theater for six months. The reason I am able to do so lies in the fact that all heads of departments are in the hands of efficient people. There is probably no better-known conductor in his line of business than Jesse Williams, in this country. He wields the baton in the representations of "Aladdin, Jr." The stage management is in the hands of Nicholas Long, who for many years has been identified with prominent plays and productions in San Francisco and Eastern cities. The wardrobe department, headed by the Misses Barclay and Coombs, and assisted by some twelve experienced dressmakers, succeeds in keeping the wardrobe up to the standard usually seen upon the opening nights in a metropolitan city."

"How is it," asked the reporter, "that the American Extravaganza Company has not been seen before in Los Angeles, when the organization has been in existence for the past nine years?"

"The reason is simply owing to the fact that we have only played about eight of the principal cities of the country. This year the management of the Los Angeles Theater offered us such inducements as allowed me to shape the tour so that we could come down here one week before our annual engagement in San Francisco. If the people in Los Angeles take to the plece, as the people of San Francisco, Denver. Chicago, Philadelphia, Boston and New York have patronized it, Los Angeles will be put on properly. The next stand will be San Francisco, and from there the company will jump to St. Louis; from St. Louis to Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, Boston and New York have patronized it, Los Angeles will have the opportunity of seeling 'Aladdin, Jr.,' before it goes into the

THE PROPOSED BONDS.

EXTENT TO WHICH THEY WILL INCREASE TAXES.

Estimates on which the Taxpayers Can Figure to See Where "They are At."

The proposed issues of city bonds for school improvements, park extension and other purposes will naturally create an interest in the taxpayer as to what extent each of the several contemplated axpenditures will affect bis pocketbook. The proposed issues of bonds are as follows: For school improvements, $185,600; for land to add to East Side Park, $25,000; for land to add to East Side Park, $25,000; for land to add to East Side Park, $25,000; for land to add to East Side Park, $25,000; for land to add to East Side Park, $25,000; for land to add to East Side Park, $25,000; for the tunneling of Third street, $141,600, and for the condemnation of fand for headworks for a waterworks system, $30,000. These sums aggregate $506,600. The total equalized assessment roll, on which the present city inx levied is based, amounts to $47,396,165, which sum $24-100 per cent. greater than the corresponding sum for last year. The city tax rate for this year is $12.0 for each $100 of assessment. Assuming that the tax rate will be increased in the same ratio as the present one, and also assuming that the tax rate will increased in the same ratio as the present one, and also assuming that the tax rate will be increased by the issue of any or all of the the proposed bonds may be computed.

The bonds above mentioned, for which an election has been called early sext month, are, if voted, to date from April 1, next. Within one year from that time the interest on all the bonds at $49, per cent. together with one-fortieth of the principal will have to be paid, which payment will have to be protided for in the next tax levy, should any particular proposed bond issue be voted on favorably, with the estimated amount of interest and principal which must be paid out of the next tax levy will be $50,018. Should the bonds for $185,000 for school improvement will have to be protided for in the next ax levy will be $50,018. Should the bonds for $185,000 for school improvements be voted it would be necessary to pay $525 interest and $4625, one-for of taxes necessary to be raised because of such bonds.

Notwithstanding the possibility of some variations from the figures given, from the manner indicated, it is believed they

the manner indicated, it is believed they very closely approximate an accurate statement of the case.

A man otherwise paying $10 taxes would, according to the figures stated, have such taxes increased by the sale of the bonds for the proposed purposes, respectively, only half as much as the man paying $20, and all other taxpayers would have their taxes increased or diminished in proportion.

Bishop Keane Opens for the Roman ists, and President Traynor Speaks for the A. P. A.

Burchfield Respectively In-dorse their Leaders'

The secret fires of civil and relig ious conflict between Romanism and the American Protective Association have long been smoldering, with only fitful expressions from the lesser lights on either side; but now that the elections are over, and the peculiar restraint imposed by political conditions is removed, the flerce issue between the opposing camps has come into the broad light of day, and the respective leaders have opened in this controversy what will doubtless prove one of the great debates of history. The Times, by a special arrangement, has procured this matter for publication, and now impartially presents the opening of the debate

OPENING FOR THE ROMANISTS By Rt. Rev. Bishop Keane, President Catholic University of America.

Perhaps because of the proverbial inap-reciation which meets a broad benevo-ence, and possibly because the greatest organizations must always have the greatest of enemies, the Roman Catholic has been, at many, if not at all times, in the history of her long work for mankind, the center of attack from hordes of her ungrateful beneficiaries. While it from our intention to offer any deense of the Catholic church, whose deeds tute her greatest justification, it is to be regretted that these attacks upon her have wn even the enlightened present to be exception, in this regard, to the history of the past. Intelligent inquiry into his-tory must establish indisputably that the light of civilization, and the birth of humanitarianism, had its inception in s have so often been stigmatized as evolence, and the purity of whose inns and devotion to mankind have so often been smirched with accusations of political design and fraud. Through all this the reliance of the church has been the certainty of the survival of the fittest which has borne her up in her arduous task and many privations to the position of her present influence and power. The right of those vested by the church ssion, through divine sovereignty, to care for the welfare, healthfulness and morality of temporal powers, complete assumption of the civic sword, that sword which Rome has never advised to be drawn save in defens nacy of the present has been her constant admonition. Doubtless, to the citations of sectarianism more than to any other force are due the enmities which have been aroused against the Catholic church. Failing in their inability to disprove the righteousness of her cause, zealots for discord, in whose appearance the present affords no exception to th past, have endeavored to assail the works of the church by attacks upon the character of such bad Catholics as they were able to find, and whom they have held up as typical productions of the wisdom and rity of the church's work for men.

In nothing more than in her work for In nothing more than in her work for education have the intentions of the church received greater criticism. They have been persistently represented to mean her stealthy encroachment upon the civic power, and her preparation, es-pecially in the United States, of a basis proselyting the nation. To instance a typical example of the aversion which a typical example of the aversion which sectarian bigotry has manifested toward the beneficent work of Catholic education, let us cite the Jesuits upon whom has been wreaked, most violently of all, the abuse of the church's enemies, despite the fact that their tireless and ardous labors for mankind, from the days when they taught the savages of the North American forest to the present in which they lead the institutions of learning of today, have been one long series of privations rather than of emoluments, and of persecution rather than of praise. So it is that from her broad policy of education, on through everything the church has done for men in Christianization of the world, there been malign perversions of her purity, resentments against her righteou ness, and petty envies of her influence and

States seems at present to be the principal point of attack against the work of the church in North America, and the excuse upon which all the charges of sub-

cuse upon which all the charges of subterfuge and plot have been brought against her, let us examine into the spirit and principles which actuate the policy of the church in the education of the young men and young women of this republic.

The practical influence of Catholic principles and of the Catholic system of education in forming men, can best be judged from the character of the typical men which the church has already produced.
These we may look for in the ranks of our Catholic bishops. The bishops of the

It their social principles. Two bave seen naturally social principles. Two such typical Catholic bishops it will suf-fice us to mention from among the body of the American Episcopate, They are Cardinal Gibbons and Archbishop Ireland.

Cardinal Gibbons and Archbishop Ireland.
No American citizen today needs to be informed how thoroughly clear-minded and broad-hearted are these two men, and how absolutely in harmony with the principles of the American republic are their convictions, and their aims.

It would be easy to indicate scores of living laymen of whom the same could be said, but selections, like comparisons, might seem odious. There is not a great metropolis in our land in which there are not Catholic citizens thoroughly idenare not Catholic citizens thoroughly iden-tified with their church in its behalf and its practices, and at the same time recog-nized by their fellow-citizens as typical exponents of all that is best and purest in our American civilization. If, on the other hand, the American people can point to certain of those, here and there, who to certain of those, here and there, who are not an honor or a fielp in our public life, the Catholic church, upon her part, can boint to many and many a pronouncement of her own in which the principles and the policies of these men are repudiated and denounced. Fair-minded men must judge the church, not by what some Catholics do in spite of their religion, but what those Catholics do who are recomby what those Catholics do who are recognized as typical churchmen in conformi

An analysis of the Catholic system of education shows the entire construction of its vast fabric to emanate from the following seven cardinal principles:

1. The basis of modern civilization is the philosophy of the Christian religion, in its teaching concerning man, God, and the relations of man with God, and men with each other. It has been attempted by philosophers of the school of Gibbons and Hume to disprove this great truth, but their efforts have been futile and experience has demonstrated the contrary.

2. No reasonable man doubts that the chief agency in the development of civilization is proper education.

3. But that education should develop sound and lasting civilization, it must have the Christian religion as a pervading ele

4. On the other hand, education is separable from scientific research and the advancement of knowledge. Some have imagined or pretended that this is inconsistent with the Christian religion; but we sistent with the Christian religion; but we know that this is not true, and that, on the contrary, every truth and fact of nature illustrates the supernatural. Science logically leads us to philosophy, and philosophy to religion. This very statement has been lately proclaimed by the Marquis of Salisbury, president of the British Academy, speaking from the standpoint of science, in his last annual address.

5. Hence, any system of education involving the exclusion of the Christian religion is illogical, and must prove practically pernicious. This is especially true of higher education, since popular thought will always be largely molded by the most learned.

6. From all this it follows that the chief need of our times, both in view of logical, sound education and in reference to genuine civilization and the safeguards of wise, social institutions, is the establishment of higher or university education, in which zeal for the very deepest scientific research, and for the very farthest advances in learning, will be coupled with equal zeal for the Christian religion.

7. Finally, it is manifest to all impartial observers that the world's advance body in civilization is led by the, United States. Here then, more than anywhere else in the world, it is important that popular education and especially higher or university education, should be thoroughly impregnated with the soundest Christian philosophy. It is this earnest conviction, and this object nearest the heart of the broadminded Leo XIII, that has led him, seconded by the practical wisdom of our bishops, to establish in the nation's capital, the great Catholic University of American The very location of this university in Washington was intended as a permanent monument of the faith of the Roman Catholic church in the righteousness of American institutions, its profound conviction of the harmony between the principles of the Catholic religion—the ciples of the great American republic and the principles of the Catholic religion—th old religion of Jesus Christ, the mothe modern civilization—and its being that the principles of these institutions are inseparably bound up with the future welfare of the world.

Much comment has, I believe, been passed upon the establishment, by the Catholic University of America, of its distribution of the distribution of the distribution of the comment of vinity school prior to the initiation of the work of its secular branches, and this has been falsely represented to bear significance of a deep-laid plot on the part of the Roman Catholic church for the proselytization of the American people. I wish to say that the sole reas establishment of our faculty of divinity before our other divisions, can be found in the statement that since the fundamenin the statement that since the fundamental conception of a university requires that it teach all possible about God, man and nature, we have commenced with the teaching about God in the conviction that the higher should logically precede the lower forms of knowledge, and that the omission of any form would mar the universality of Catholic education. Moreover, the Bottom and the representatives the versality of Catholic education. Moreover, the Pope and his representatives, the bishops, feel confident that the great cause of Catholic education in America must commend itself to the sympathies, not only of intelligent Catholics but of all our citizens, whatsoever their denominational creed, who believe that the welfare of our country and of the world depends upon the creed, who believe that the welfare of our country and of the world depends upon the intimate union of the Christian religion with the highest and broadest of culture. The teachings of the Catholic church, that the substance and the light of civilization is to be found in the spread of Christian education, have resulted in the enlistment under its banner of as devoted and self-sacrificing an army of workers as were ever organized in any cause. Few more touching examples of devotion to the progress of education can be found in the progress of education can be found in the biography of its greatest friends than has more touching examples of devotion to the progress of education can be found in the biography of its greatest friends than has been witnessed in the act of the venerable Monseigneur McMahon in devoting his entire fortune of nearly $400,000 to the building of a home for philosophy and literature in the Catholic University of America, where he is now spending his last honored days after an active pastorate of forty years in New York city. This is but a single instance of the unselfish zeal which marks the adherents of this noble cause, and Americans should find satisfaction in the knowledge that, while the secular departments of the Catholic University of America know no distinction of creed to either students or professors, their teachings will never be found to countenance or compromise with the schools of agnosticism, materialism and infidelity.

Perhaps in few things has the position and policy of the Catholic church been more persistently misrepresented than in the allegations concerning its political purposes, which have flooded the sectarian press during the past few years. The Catholic church has he political purposes, which have flooded the sectarian press during the past few years. The Catholic church has he political purposes, which have flooded the sectarian press during the Past few years. The Catholic are Republicans, simply according to the view they may take of the great centripetal and centrifugal tendencies, in which consist the harmony of our governmental system. Neither in the private recognition of their church nor in the public example of its Christian citizenship, are they either better or worse Catholics for the views which they hold concerning these great principles and tendencies of our commonwealth. Men are good Catholics if they hold and fellow the principles of the church, and they are bad Catholics if they hold and fellow the principles of the church, and they are bad Catholics if they hold and fellow the principles of the church, and they are bad Catholics if they hold and fellow th separate or estrange them from its principles. The secular position and affinities of any Catholic, aside from his observance of the moral law, are matters entirely extraneous to his religious faith, and any assumption to the contrary is repudiated both by the teachings of the church and the practices of its consistent members.

Our country has lately witnessed an outburst of sectarian animosity against the Catholic church, in a mass of heterogeneous movements arising, here and there, which have finally crystallized themselves in a most un-American organization, ruled by the reprisals of intolerance, recruited by the spirit of revolution, and rallied as the "A.P.A." Such movements are no new thing, either in the history of our country. Bigotry ruled in the land before our war of independence, and even since the genius of America has quenched its shameful and destructive flames, a few scattering firebrands have now and then appeared, endeavoring to rekindle afresh that confagration whose lurid fires once flamed against the night of supersition in the times of the Salem witchcraft. It is this malign spirit of disorder which is now once more asserting itself in political or semipolitical movements, which have for their beginning a thrust at the Christian religion, and for their ultimate design the disintegration of our society. It is strange that any intelligent man could listen to these harbingers from the religious ghost-lore of the past, or could give to such inflammatory efforts the dignity of supposed political importance.

The intolerant methods of the boycottists, the calamitarians and the bugaboo politicians can no longer influence the opinions of an intelligent community. The principle constituency of all such movements as a rule valled from the ranks.

tists, the calamitarians and the bugaboo politicians can no longer influence the opinions of an intelligent community. The principle constituency of all such movements is, as a rule, railied from the ranks of illiteracy, and while headed here and there by misguided enthusiasts of greater abilities, the general body of such agitationists represent the most ignorant classes of our commonwealth.

there by misguided enthusiasts of greater abilities, the general body of such agitationists represent the most ignorant classes of our commonwealth.

The American people do not need to be reminded of the character and history of "know-nothingism," and of their final indignant repudiation of it which has rendered the very name of its disciples the synonym and symbol of ignorance. Something of the same kind is now showing itself in this new movement of the American Protective Association, and working, be it said, with an energy worthy of a better cause, to set citizen against citizen through the agency of bigotry, prejudice and sectarianism. It but gladdens my heart to see how flercely they work in their bad cause, for the louder their outcries, the more infiammatory their utterances, and malignant their exertions, the sooner will they show to the American people the shamefulness of their heartless, unchristian policy. I say more power to them, for power illretters, usen and unrighteous ness of their heartless, unchristian policy. I say more power to them, for power illigotten is soonest spent, and unrighteous revolution must always run the shortest course. Let them do their worst, for the sooner that worst appears, the sooner will the miserable spirit which actuates their street and their worst. efforts become plain to our citizens and settle their cause forever. I have no fear at all as to what the future will be. Besettle their cause forever. I have no fear at all as to what the future will be. Belleving, as I do, absolutely, in the genius of American principles and institutions, I know that these men and their policy are not the outgrowth of the liberal genius of America, nor are they the children of its harmony and freedom; and I know that their career, even though it be violent, must be short-lived and end in the ignominy which it deserves. I am convinced that the whole movement, now known as that of the A.P.A., is simply the outcome of imported British Orangeism, in alliance with the small, lingering element of ultra New England puritanism, in which the intolerance of the former has fused with the worst forms of the superstition of the latter. This poor thing is making desperate efforts to secure a place in the struggle for existence, but in the very laws of Nature, which demand the survival of the fittest, it must soon be destined to despair. These parasites upon the social body will always vanish in due course of their own accord, if left to the purifying influence of the life-blood of our republic. They will become fewer as our civilization progresses, until it attains a point where none of these isolated handfuls of revolutionists can raise a concourse large enough to secure the most passing attention in their dissent from the laws of social order and development. JOHN J. KEANE, Bishop, Pres. Catholic University of America.

THE A. P. A. SIDE.

THE CASE PRESENTED BY THE

President W. J. H. Traynor, of the American Protective Association, to the Fore in its

Better than any seriatim denial of the niustices and calumnies to which the Romanists have submitted, the American pate, will be a simple statement of the facts which called this organization into being, and the manner in which it has con-ducted itself since it was born. The ignorance of our methods which charac-terizes them with the stigma of "intoler-ance" is more "pitiable" than anything which we now propose to make been given prior to the recent elections, nothing could have preserved the association from charges of partisan ambition. But now the time has arrived when a formal decla of ecclesiasticism, and realizing the peculiar perils of a sacerdotalism under a foreign head, claiming control of its followers throughout the world and arrogating to itself the right to define where allegiance to the state ends and obedience to the church begins, the founders of the American Protective Association naturally looked upon the papal government in Rome, and its representatives in the United States, as a menace to the democracy of our civil organism.

The many appropriations to church institutions, of which the State and Federal records show an alarming growth, demogratics defying the Constitution, but that directly and indirectly they were corrupting the servants of the people to further the ends of the church. Following evidently the teachings of the papal hierarchy, the subjects of the Pope of this country had segregated in such alarming political strength in nearly all our large cities, that the election of a non-papist was rather an exception than the rule, from 40 to 90 per cent. of the public office-holders and employees being followers of the Roman pontiff. This condition of affairs, obtaining as it did throughout the country, cannot by any stretch of logic be attributed to accident, as many apologists for the system would have us believe; not can it be excused upon the ground or superior fitness, for the fact was noterious that the most illiterate of government employees, both in State and nation, were subjects of the papacy, and that those large cities where papists held the reins of government were the most corrupt. No one could doubt, therefore, that a radical reformation was necessary. The gates of our republic had been permitted to remain open long after indiscriminate immigration had become a political crime, and the reformation inaugurated at this crisis has been simed, not at the subjects of the Roman pontiff as individuals, but at a certain system which threatened the democratic institutions of the country—a system by which the politicians were enabled to use alien ignorance and i

These may be called the law of the

These may be called the law of the American Protective Association. He who observes the whole law is an A.P.A.-ist already. Our obligations can but bind, they cannot improve his principles. Much play has been made by adverse critica upon the "esoteric" and "exorteric" platforms of the order. There is but one platform, which is fully expressed in the above summary—whose principles are as public as the light of day and, we believe, as healthful.

The order is assumed of bringing religion summary—whose principles are as public as the light of day and, we believe, as healthful.

The order is accused of bringing religion into politics. A glance at the foregoing platform will convince him who reads to learn and not to carp, that its object is to keep religion and politics apart. Much, too, has been said upon the subject of our alleged religious proscriptions. The American Protective Association, as a society, neither recognizes religion as a part of its own creed, nor condemns its presence nor absence in others. Religion is a personal matter between the individual and his God, and is entirely extraneous to the province of a civic organization. He who would interfere, in either the repression or advocacy of any creed, exhibits an officiousness which will not be welcomed or countenanced in the ranks of the A.P.A.

It is demanded alone that the individual shall know where his allegiance to the totate ends and his tribute to God begins. He who is unfortunate enough to place his allegiance to any church higher than his duty to the state is assuredly an unsafe citizen in a country where church and state are separated, and will inevitably recognize his religious obligation in preference to his civic allegiance, wherever the demands of his church may be at variance with those of the temporal authorities. The case becomes infinitely worse where the head of the church is a foreigner in a foreign land, and his subjects are our citizens who accept the papal dictum that morals from an alien, they must not be surprised if their non-papist papacy. If papists accept their politics with their morals from an alien, they must not be surprised if their non-papist fellow-citizens distrust their purposes, no matter how pure their motives. We are aware that it has been argued—albeit against all logic—that there are "liberal Catholics," who reject the pretentions of the papacy to regulate the politics of its subjects. But reason judges the subject by the constitution under which he serves, and it is obvious that the constitution of the papacy is at utter variance with that of the United States. Of this, a reference to papal canon law in the encyclicals of Pius IX, and his successor, should convince the most ardent defender of the church. His unfaltering allegiance to the Constitution of the United States necessarily renders him a disloyal "Catholic," to whom allusion as a "papist" becomes a misnomer, and with such the A.P.A. neither has nor can have any issue. The state teaches obedience through reason, the church obedience without reason. The papist, therefore, must always decide against the state, where its jurisdiction is in conflict with the church, who thus defines the duty of her subjects.

The influence of the A.P.A. upon the doublets of the A.P.A. upon the doublets of the A.P.A. is demanded, not alone by the misrepresentations of the Romanists, in opening this debate, but by those to which it has been subjected throughout the country at large, and consideration of the secrecy of our methods shall restrain us no longer.

The reform movement of which the American Protective Association is the head and front, like all truly reformatory movements, developed in a grave national crisis, was concelved at a time when the church, as represented by the papal hierarchy in the United States threatened an enforced alliance with the state; its constitutional and temporal superior; at a time when the sphere of politics had become so befogged with the spirit of ecclesiasticism and foreignism that the servants of the people, the legislators of the nation, had almost lost sight of constitutional principles. Among the numerous "parasites" which had surreptitiously attached themselves to the body politic was the American arm of the papacy, strengthened and emboldened by the tide of illiterate immigration, which leaden with the pauperism of Europe, and beclouded with the supersition of the middle ages, threatened to poison the life blood of the republic. Out of these conditions sprang dishonest legislation, from whose corruption in turn arose nearly all of the existing ills with which the attion, lows, on March, 13 1887, the constitution demands from the state only in the union of church and state, or the domination of politics by the spirit the domination of politics by the spirit in the domination of politic of her subjects.

The influence of the A.P.A. upon the power of the papal hierarchy in the United

The rights of the child-citizen go a step further. As father of the man, he is entitled to demand an education peculiarly adapted to his ensuing citizenship. This he does not receive in the parcehial school, whose curriculum sacrifices to the demands of the church a large portion of that time which, in the public school, is devoted to secular instruction. The right of the state to demand that so much of the child's time shall be devoted to secular education as shall make him an intelligent citizen is undentable, but that this right is ignored by the schools of the papacy and opposite results obtained is proven by the statistics of all dountries where parcehial education prevails. We are aware that the leaders of the papal church in the United States deny this conclusion, but their denial cannot stand in the light of reason and experience. The teachings of the parochial schools are directly intended to have the effect of making the child a subject of the pontiff first and a citizen secondarily; evolving the natural deduction that the heretic, who possesses no standing in the sight of God, can have no rights in the eyes of men. The flat of the church upon this proposition is as much a matter of history as the American revolution.

Another aspect of the undemocratic character of papal teachings is the asserted right of press censorship by the priesthood, and that this is not an unenforced claim is abundantly shown in the recent trials of editors of papal organs in this country and Canada, who have dared to express sentiments not in accord with those of the pontiff. Free speech, the bulwark of American liberty, has been made the object of a vigorous onslaught by the paracy, whose denunciations have had more than a passing effect upon its votaries, as ovidenced in the notorious attacks made upon public speakers who have opposed the promulgation of ovidenced in the notorious attacks upon public speakers who have op the promulgation of the papal system der the protection of a Constitution s free utterance to all. The se guarantees free utterance to all. The se-crecy of the papal confessional, which, after absolving the penitent from the spiritual consequences of a crime, permits him to deny under oath its commission, constitutes a portion of a code of ethics as much at variance with the spirit of the United States Constitution as the papal inquisition of the middle ages. We cannot here allude in detail to the un-American principles of the papal leaders and their undemocratic influence upon the loyalty of their followers. Suffice it that any of these counts should stand as a basis for the united protest of the American people against their fellow-citizens living under the constitution of the papal hierarchy.

Let us consider to what extent these evils have been modified through the development of the American Protective nel. Primal allegiance to the papacy, once the sina qua non of political success in nearly all our large cities, has, through the educational propaganda of the Ameri-can Protective Association, been widely recitizenship. This has been especially dem onstrated in our recent elections, wherever the organization has been strong enough to make its purifying non-partisan influ onstrated in our recent elections, wherever the crganization has been strong enough to make its purifying non-partisan influence manifest.

Among the notable instances we may cite Michigan, once the El Dorado of the papist politician, where less than 5 per cent. of the newly-elected State and Legislative officers are subjects of the papacy. The election results this year in Tennessee, Kentucky and West Virginia, where hitherto the line of partisan politics has been sharply drawn, and the papist vote given en bloc in exchange for special privileges to papal institutions, show but few either of papist or corrupt partisan politicians elected to office. It is worthy of comment that the A.P.A. in these States, is most efficiently organized, and officered by men whose patriotism is paramount over their partisan predilections.

The South as a whole, though true to its Democratic principles, hates with a hate that is truly American those elements of foreign ecclesiasticism to which partisan rerumstances have bound for her so many years, and welcomes as its deliverer a movement which shall synthesize all the elements of pure Americanism. Such is the American Protective Association, with its powerful non-partisan organization of over 4,000,000 voters for the purifying of the particular political change which we have just witnessed, we maintain that to this body accrues the credit for the quickening of dignified, independent and patriotic citizenship throughout the land. This success is due to the fact that it is moved by absolutely no partisan aspirations, and that its sole political desire is for the purification of the body politic. We believe that an unprejudiced comparison of the actual work and ambitions. A this tions, and that its sole political desire is for the purification of the body politic. We believe that an unprejudiced comparison of the actual work and ambitions of this organization, with those with which the Romanists, have charged us, in opening this debate, will convince all fair-minded men of the injustice of their aspersions.

The opposition which exists to the American Protective Association today may be traced to some five sources. First to the rican Protective Association today may be traced to some five sources: First, to the papacy, whose designs for perverting the democratic institutions of the republic to fits own ends the organization has exposed democratic institutions of the republic to its own ends the organization has exposed and largely frustrated; second, to that class of politicians whose subservience to the interests of the papacy has been a matter of pecuniary or political profit; third, to that part of the public press which has, at the instance of patrons of the first and second classes, been unfortunately induced to assail the principles of this organization; fourth, to that partisanship which would stamp out of existence every factor in our political life incapable of adaptation to its selfsh purposes; and, fifth, to that portion of the American people who, not knowing the real intents of the organization, are misled by those whose interests have dictated the deception.

The Romanists loudly accuse the American people with the profit of the discount of the control of the control real intents of the organization, are misled by those whose interests have dictated the deception.

The Romanists loudly accuse the American Protective Association of being proscriptive. The accusation is just. It proscribes every element which diverges from the spirit of the Constitution; it denounces all ecclesiastical influence over the affairs of state; it denounces the illiterate woter as one of the greatest menaces of the republic; it proscribes all who would engraft upon the tree of state the institutions of another age, land or civilization; it denounces party rings, and the partisanship which is before patriotism. It demands liberty of conscience and press, with undissuaded freedom of worship; and declares that each citizen—independent of party, creed or affiliations—should pay a just share toward the support of the nation. Equal citizenship, equal rights to all whose lovaity is unimpeachable; special privileges to none, equal responsibilities for all; one allegiance, and one voice, that voice the voice of the people.

Board of the A. P. A.

In adding our indersement to the forcible statement of President Traynor, we desire to call attention to the following facts, for candid consideration of all readers of this debate: Romanism and imperialism are synonymous. Founded on the fallacy of the dual regnancy of church and state. Rome teaches the indiscriminate mobilization of government as the demands of sacerdotalism. Her autocracy, elethed under the subterfuge of divine right, has too long ruled mankind in respect to faith and mbrals, art and science, law and politics.

What to do with Milk Pails!

Clean them with Pearline. You can't get them so thoroughly sweet and pure in any other way. Besides, it's easier for you quicker, more economical.

"The Box and barrel churn are not hard to keep clean. A little hot water and a little Pearline will clean any churn or do away with any bad odor."—The Dairy World, Chicago. Perhaps you think that some of the imitations of Pearline, that you'd be afraid to use in washing clothes, would do just as well in work like this. They wouldn't hurt tinware, certainly. But they wouldn't

R. C. STURTEVANT,

Let whosover doubts the assumptions of Rome give heed to these pronunciamentos of her creed, admitted by Cardinal Gibbons himself, by Cardinal Manning and other leaders, to stand today as its irrevocable law and polity toward mankind.

The bull "Unum Sactum," declares that "the temporal sword is the property of priests" in the hands of rulers, "at the ned and sufferance of the priests, for it behoves that one sword be subject to another, and that the temporal authority be subject to the spiritual power. Therefore, if the earthly power deviates, it is judged by its superior, but if the Supreme Power deviates, it can be judged by God alone." The bull "Auscalta fi i Carrissime" declares that "both swords are given to the church, the spiritual and the temporal. One is drawn for the church, the other by the church."

Let none imagine that the vassalage of governments to Rome is one of her past ambitions. It is as much the actuating force of her secret councils today as it was in the era of medievalism, and this ambition, under the pseudonym of the Catholic church, is the millitant force against which we are contending. Rome becomes all things to all ages, and in this age of progressing republicanism, when crusades are no longer possible, she has covered the malled hand of the Middle Ages with the velvet glove of modern diplomacy; and enters the councils of our republic with those insidious strategies which conquer while they seek with flattery to still the nation's apprehension. Compare with these flats of the Romish church, the definition of nationalism for which Sidney perished as a heretic, and the definition of religious freedom for which Jefferson became immortalized, choosing between the two that which is most in accord with the spirit of American institutions.

Death of Joseph H. Conrad at the Beceiving Hospital.

Joseph H. Conrad died at the Leceiving Hospital yesterday at 5:20 p.m. He was taken from the Reed House to the hospital at 10 a.m., Friday, dying from morphine poisoning, and has literally been forced to live since then; but he never spoke a word after taking the fatal dose and died without wholly regaining consciousness. Corrad tried to commit suicide once before by taking laudanum in his room at the Hollenbeck, but at that time his life was saved by hard work; this time he took enough morphine to kill five men and the hardest of work and the best of care could not save him from the death he so desired.

could not save him from the death he so desired.

The wife was very much affected by the unfortunate ending of her husband's life and her grief was sad to look upon. She had made all the arrangements to have the man removed to her rooms at the Belmont, but affecen minutes after the arrival of the ambulance, he expired.

The Coroner will hold an inquest this morning at Peck & Chase's undertaking establishment.

At about 7:30 p.m. that day some one broke through a window and entered a closet adjoining one of the rooms in the residence of Edward L. Doheney at No. 1537 West First street, and, if he had not been discovered, would probably have ransacked the house before morning. But Mrs. Doheney had occasion to take something from the closet and, in doing so, ran against the intruder there in the darkness. The fellow seized her by the throat and handled her so roughly, that she fainted from the shock. The desperate villain them made his escape.

NEWER MATHEMATICS.

A circular has been issued from the department of mathematics of Troop Polytechnic Institute, signed by Profs. Arthur L. Hamilton, Warren Lores and Herbert B. Perkins, giving the course of study for the year. The department of algebra and geometry, in charge of Prof. Hamilton; trigonometry and first and second-years' civil engineering, in charge of Prof. Loree, and analytics, calculus and third-year civil engineering, Prof. Perkins, are arranged to the best advantage of the student. An innovation in old methods is hinted at in a paragraph which says:

"It is the aim of the department to encourage the inventive powers, to develop logical and accurate reasoning and good judgment, and the habit of giving in a concise manner, mathematical statements. To this end the student is led to understand clearly the meaning of the subject matter in hand, and the reasons for what he does. Much attention is given to the solution and demonstration of original problems and theorems."

PROGRESSIVE EUCHRE PARTY.

The guests at the Spaulding gave an enjoyable progressive euchre party Saturday night. It was the first of a series of social evenings to be held at the Spaulding through the winter with dancing, card-playing, musicales, etc., for entertainment. There were five tables; the contest continued for two hours and a half. The first prize, a hardsome combination card-nolder and counter, was won by Mrs. Woolley; the second, a dainty silver-mounted calendar, by Mr. Tannahill. H. Kismreth and Mrs. Brown captured the booby prices. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Adams, Mms. Woolley, Wagner, Brown, Alexander, Mr. and Mrs. Spaulding, Misses Hine, Conger, Stearns, Campbell, the Misses Brierley, Messrs. Cherry, Henry Klamroth, Stearns, Tannahill and Wood.

Rev. Dr. W. A. Spencer of Philadelphia, general secretary of the Church Extension Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church, preached to a full house at the tabernacie this morning. His sermon was delivered from the words, "Behold, I Set Before You an Open Deor." He discussed the problem of missions; foreign and home, speaking of the foreign element of our cities calling for foreign mission work on our own shores. The Doctor sang in a very affecting manner two selections. A special offering was taken for the work.

The older of the two buildings occupied by the Throop Polytechnic Institute will be in the hands of the architect for a while, to be remodeled in some respects and strengthened throughout. The introduction of much new machinery into the building has made necessary some important betterments. The requirements of the building have exceeded the expectations of the architect who designed it, and while it has not been deemed unsafe, it is considered advisable to change it in accordance with the present needs.

Storm-water Washouts—Civic Officers—Other Local Notes.

SANTA MONICA, Dec. 3.—(Special Correspondence.) Exaggerated reports of the damage done by storm water during the welcome rains of last week have gained some currency. They are altogether out of preportion to the mischief really wrought. A tour of inspection demonstrates that no serious damage was done anywhere, although enough dirt was misplaced to put the authorities upon their guard against what might otherwise follow when the showers become heavier. At the junction of Fifth and Railroad avenue there is a new fill the entire width of the street. Sepage at the original surface created an underwash which caused the street for thirty feet to sink from one to three feet. At the west side a surface flow cut back through the sidewalk. A hundred wasgonloads of dirt and a culvert for waste water will fix things all right at this point.

At the Fourth-street fill a block west of this, the secondary trough for the gutter proved insufficient in capacity, and 200 yards of dirt went out from behind the east wing on the north end of the bridge. On the south there was a slight wash at the west sidewalk.

The south fill at the Seventh-street bridge was damaged a little by water, for which provisions have now been made, keeping it away from the road entirely. A central bent was also washed out around a little, but no serious danger was threatened. cers-Other Local Notes.

central bent was also washed out around a little, but no serious danger was threatened.

The new fill at the foot of Bay street lost half a hundred yards from the south side. Precautionary measures will be necesary to forestall further washing.

Other than these items the surplus water found the sea harmlessly.

The election of fire department officers resulted in choice of the following: W. I. Hull, president; C. H. Thomas, secretary; M. H. Volkman, treasurer; G. B. Dexter, foreman; A. J. Myers, first, and E. Emerson, second assistants; George Suits, steward.

A WILD MAN CAPTURED GARDEN GROVE.

His Mind a Blank and He Cannot Tell His Name or Where He is from—A Matrimonial Prospect.

SANTA ANA, Dec. 9. — (Special Correspondence.) Deputy Sheriff Folsom and Harry Oldfield of Garden Grove, brought a wild man into this city about 2 o'clock this morning, and turned him over to Nightwatchman Nigg, who prepared quar-ters for him in the City Jail. The man is as crazy as a loon, and as hairy as the wild man from Borneo. He came into Garden Grove Saturday from the direction of the Alamitos, and after letting out a few den Grove Saturday from the direction of the Alamitos, and after leiting out a few war-whoops that would put a Comanche Indian to shame, he proceeded to race up and down the streets and through the yards of the country residences, frightening the women and children, as well as some of the men, almost out of their wits. He attempted to kindle a fire several times under large shade trees, and in close proximity to several houses, but each time was checked by the now thoroughly-aroused citizens, who were watching his every movement. Deputy Sheriff Folsom was sent for, and at a late hour in the evening persuaded the individual to come to town with him where, he was told, he would be properly-cared for.

The Times correspondent visited the man in jail this morning with a view, if possible, of ascertaining who he was. When the jail door swung open he immediately began a series of gyrations and muttarings that more nearly resembled the sations and voice of a human being. His hair was bushy and his beard unkempt. His eyes fairly bulged from their deep sockets as he stared at his intruders, whom he evidently first thought came to do him harm. In a few moments he became a little more rational, and at one time talked rationally just for a few moments, and then, clasping his head with his hands, on each side, he began his senseless chatter again, and this time it was in a more aggravated form than it was at first. He had removed the greater portion of his clothing, including his shees, and his bare feet were blue with cold as he paced back and forth over the damp floor.

He could not, or would not, tell his name, where he was from or what he had been doing. He had a paper, however, upon which was written the name of William Frank, but when addressed by this name he would make no intelligent answer. Another paper was found which indicated that he had recently been employed as a section hand on section sixty-six of the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad. He will be taken into the Superior Court tomorrow taken into the Superior Court tomorrow (Monday) morning, when provision will no doubt be made for his proper care.

ORANGE.

ORANGE, Dec. 9.—(Special Correspondence.) On account of the evangelists not being able to visit Orange at the present time the special meetings at the Methodist Episcopal Church have been postponed to a future date.

Hobos are becoming so numerous that the people scarcely know when it is safe to leave their homes. A regular rendezvous for the gentry is in the dry bed of the Santiago Creek, near the railroad, south of town. Here they congregate in pairs, quartettes and scores, and prey upon the chicken roosts and orchards of the adjacent ranchers. Unless something can legally be done to keep them out the people may have to take the law into their own hands and administer it in a rough manner upon the fraternity.

All of our churches are making active preparations for Christmas. Appropriate exercises will be held in the Methodist, Christian and Presbyterian churches on Christmas eve, and the Baptists will have a tree and concert Christmas night.

A concert and tableaux, and sale of useful and fancy articles will take place at the residence of William H. Burnham at Orange, Friday, December 14, for the benefit of Trinity Guild. The sale will be from 3 to 10 pm., and the concert at 8 pm. Refreshments will be served in the afternoon. The ladies who have the matter in charge are sure to make a success of the affair, as they always do.

Albert Sitton and his sister, Miss Zarah, made a trip to Temescal and Elsinore by team Monday of last week, returning Saturday evening. Two Persons Injured in a Runaway-

A Surrey Demolished.
SANTA BARBARA, Dec. 9. — (Special Correspondence.) Yesterday afternoon, while driving in Montecito with her mother and two children, the horse of Mrs. Arthur and two children, the norse of Mrs. Arthur-Bell of Carpenteria took fright, and, run-ning away, upset the surrey, throwing the occupants to the ground. The children es-caped unhurt, but Mrs. Bell was badly bruised and her mother, Mrs. Crumbell, suffered a broken wrist and sprained ankle. Mrs. Bell's health is not the best and the shock may prove aerious to her but her Mrs. Bell's health is not the best and the shock may prove serious to her, but her injuries are not considered dangerous. The ladies were brought to the city, but were later taken to their home in Carpenteria.

Another runaway took place last evening on State street, which came near being fatal. The team of Mr. Sproul, attached to his oil wagon, started in front of the hardware store of Edwards & Co., and in endeavoring to stop them George Dawe was knocked down, the whoels of the wagon passing over his legs. He was pleked up and taken to a drug store, where it was found that, although badly bruised, there were no bones broken. It was a narrow escape, however.

Sunday's Letter. SANTA BARBARA, Dec. 9.—(Special

correspondence.) The case of the People vs. Henry Lynden was called in the Superior Court yesterday afternoon. The District Attorney, and J. J. Boyce, attorney for the defense, each had a motion to submit to the court and each tried to bave the first say, but Boyce finally gave way to the proceedings and Mr. Putnam to the prosecution, and Mr. Putnam moved that the indictments of the grand jury, charging Lynden with inpest, be dismissed on the ground that it did not show sufficient facts to bring the matter within the twistedictions of the court. The atternance of the court. missed on the ground that it did not show sufficient facts to bring the matter within the jurisdiction of the court. The attorney for the defense ob exted to this urotion, but it was granted by the court and the action dismissed. Lynden was arrested as soon as he left the courtroom on a warrant issued by Justice Crane, before whom he will stand a preliminary examination. It is believed that the defendant would have pleaded guilty to the bill, as found against him by the grand jury.

A correspondent from Lompoe to the Morning Press has created a great deal of feeling by the statement that the large number of cattle dying on the San Julian rancho are dying because of negligence. He states that when feed is scarce the cattle could be kept by cutting branches from the live oak trees, which are beavily laden with acorns. Be that as it may, the fact remains that many cattle have died on, the large ranches in the county from no other cause than starvation.

SAN BERNARDINO, Dec. 8.—(Special Correspondence.) It is semi-officially announced that the First National Bankaffairs of this city will be readjusted by converting the assets of the bank into cash and paying off the depositors. Plans have not been fully perfected, but assurances are given that checks will be honored inside of thirty days. This bank closed down a few weeks ago with $170,000 due depositors and has since been in charge of National Bank Examiner Wightman.

HIGH CLASS MUSIC.

A San Bernardino audience came into close touch with music of a high order last evening, when it showed such appreciation of the musicale at the First M. E. Church. It was Miss Selkirk's first appearance as a vocalist in this city and she showed herself an artist of a high order.

There was also excellent talent in Miss Selkirk's associates in the concert. Erbe's new orchestra, though composed chiefly of amateurs, provided some good orchestra music and Prof. Wyckoff's organ solo was well received, as are all his pieces. The "Wanderer's Night Song," was a charming trio.

to see that it was not a first-class troupe on the road, so smoothly did the opera glide along in the good ship "H. M. S. Pinafore." F. G. Fereaud, a born actor, made a typical Sir Joseph Porter, K. C. B., first ford of the admiralty. Harry Steward as Ralph Racktraw, appeared very much a lover and every inch an officer, when the time came. Ho was easy on the stage, and his voice was good. The difficult part of Capt. Corcoran was taken by George B. Ellis, who did well, though appeared ill at ease, and was somewhat angular and mechanical in his movements. J. S. Edwards was an "able seaman" of the first water as Dick Deadeye, and every one wondered how so frigid a prohibitionist could make such a jolly tar. His singing was surprisingly well done. Mrs. J. S. Edwards's voice proved an attractive one in the person of Josephine, which part was well played by her. Miss Marcia Craft seemed at home in the part of Little Buttercup, and her rich voice and true tones made for her friends from the opening song, "The Flower Girl." The minor parts were well taken by Miss Nellie Ruggles, R. C. Avery, James Medlands and ohers, and the chorus singing was rich. on the road, so smoothly did the opera parts were well taken by Miss Nellie Ruggles, R. C. POMONA, Dec. 9.—(Special Correspond ice.) It will be remembered that several years ago Charles Seaver, in conjunction with one or two other public-spirited citi-zens of Pomona, commenced tunneling in the vicinity of what is known as Indian Hill, about five miles to the north and east from Pomona, for the purpose of deeast from Pomona, for the purpose of developing water, and so free was the flow, it is said, that with the crude appliances used at the time, work had to cease, as it proved too serious a delay and obstruction to its progress. Mr. Seaver, however, saya that suitable machinery has been ordered, and that upon its arrival on the ground—which will be very shortly—the enterprise will be recommended and pushed vigorously for all that's in it. He

The Local Oil Industry."

Today's meeting of the City Council will probably be entirely given up to the canvassing of the vote of the recent city election. It has been stated that representatives of the local Democracy would demand a recount in the case of the ballots cast for Dr. Wills for member of the Board of Education from the Second Ward.

T. H. Ward, clerk-elect of the Supreme Court, states that he has made no designation as to who shall be chief deputy in his office, as the salaries and duties of all are the same, and one does not have precedence over another. He makes this statement in correction of a report that there would be a chief deputy among the persons appointed.

SLASHED HIS FOREHEAD.

4 Waiter Badly Cut in a Fight with a Cook. Yesterday afternoon Julius Lambert, s waiter at Brown's Cafe, was treated at the Receiving Hospital for a long gash over his forchead and a badly-battered virage.

He says he went into the kitchen to get some water, and got into a dispute with the cook over the matter. The dispute opded in a fracas, and in the melee the cook used his saw-edged breadcutter upon the head of Lambert with the effect stated. The latter vowed vengeance, so this after-aoon the cook will have a chance to ex-plain the matter to Justice Seaman.
